Government Of Western Germany Takes Form

6 Powers Agreed On Federation Plan And International Control of Ruhr

By Ned Russell

London, May 21 (NYHT).—The six-power talks on western Germany will end early next week with conference agreement on plans for setting up a western German government and an international authority for the Ruhr early next year, it was learned tonight.

Representatives of the six powers—the United States, Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—met late today to discuss future security against Germany.

The conference, which has been in session almost continuously since April 21, has reached formal agreement on a wide area of German political and economic measures. Drafting committees will spend the next few days laying down exact details. The conference is expected to end by the middle of next week.

To Reassure French

Today's discussion was designed primarily to reassure the French, who have been increasingly apprehensive about the concessions they have made on the political and economic questions.

The whole conference has been secret. It was expected that details would remain secret, but the general outline would be disclosed in a communique.

It was learned authoritatively, however, that agreement has been reached on these points:

1. A constituent assembly will be convened September 1 to draw up a constitution. The assembly will be made up roughly of 55 German delegates, each representing 750,000 Germans in the various laender (states) in the three western zones.

2. The assembly will be given a series of directives from the military governors of the United States, Britain and France, defining the general outline of the constitution. In it the three occupying powers will retain a certain amount of control over the foreign, political and trade relations as well as certain economic and military affairs.

Plan Sort of Federation

3. A bicameral legislative system is to be established. Western Germany will become a sort of federation, rather than a confederation. There will be a moderately strong central government probably set up at Frankfurt early next year.

4. An international authority for the Ruhr will be set up at the same time to determine the amounts of coal, coke and steel to be exported and retained for western Germany. The Ruhr authority will consist of seven members representing the six western powers and western Germany.

5. A special occupation statute, or military government ordinance, will be promulgated, setting forth the powers of the government and of the military governors.

6. The Laender (states) of west-

Finn President Prepares to Oust Red Minister

Helsinki, Finland, May 21 (U.P.).—President Juho K. Paasikivi will remove Yrjoe Leino, Communist interior minister, from office tomorrow, if he has not resigned by then, a reliable source close to Paasikivi said tonight.

The Finnish parliament passed a vote of censure against Leino Wednesday night. Under the constitution, a cabinet member receiving such a vote of non-confidence must resign.

Leino still had not quit today, however. His failure to do so created an unprecedented crisis in Finland. Leino allegedly extradited 10 Finns and 10 foreigners from Russia in 1945 without cabinet authorization.

She Works for Tass

Protest on Daughter's Job Leads U. S. Official to Resign

EUPHEMIA VIRDEN
Works for Tass

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Because a Midwest Congressman objected to his daughter's employment with Tass, Russian news agency here, the Government has lost the services of a man who, according to Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer "is serving and has served with distinction at considerable personal sacrifice."

The man is John C. Virden, director of the Office of Industry Cooperation of the Department of Commerce.

Last Tuesday Representative Fred L. Crawford (R., Mich.) wrote Sawyer demanding that he ask Virden's resignation. His reasons were that Virden's 22-year-old daughter, Euphemia Kirkpatrick Virden, is a teletype operator for Tass.

Letter of Resignation

Sawyer took the matter up with Virden, and the latter resigned. In his letter of resignation, Virden said:

"It happens that I have been almost violently anti-atheist-Marxist for many years—so much so that it is truly ironical for a member of my family to be interested in the Marxist type of philosophy.

"My daughter, though a girl of high ideals, is only 22 and in my judgment is simply being exploited.

"She and I had a complete break last January when she decided to accept this position. I have not seen or communicated with her in any way since that time."

Virden had intended, he told Sawyer, to take the matter up with him at the first opportunity.

Sawyer said he attempted to talk to Crawford by telephone about the case, but the Congressman did not return his call. Sawyer wrote him:

"The request for Mr. Virden's resignation is unnecessary, as he has already tendered his resignation without suggestion from me. There are two questions involved:

"1. Is Mr. Virden, himself, unfit to do the work he is doing? In comment on this point may I say that Mr. Virden is serving and has

Truman Signs Bill Providing Air Expansion

Serves Notice Funds Added in Congress May Not Be Spent

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday signed a $3,198,000,000 plane-building appropriation bill—the so-called 70-group Air Force measure—but declared he will move cautiously in spending the 822 millions added by Congress.

The President pointed out that the act specifically gives him control over releasing the aircraft money. He said that in approving outlays for warplane orders he will keep in mind the importance to national security of a "strong economic system."

No Orders Flow Likely

While officials would not comment, apparently there will be no immediate flow of "letters of intent" from the Air Force and Navy to airplane builders, as had been anticipated.

It has been reported that telegrams authorizing the companies to go ahead with building plans had been prepared, awaiting the bill becoming law.

Mr. Truman said that he had asked Defense Secretary Forrestal and the Budget Bureau Director to prepare the "appropriate procedures" for him to review proposals for release of plane-building funds.

Under the act, he is made responsible for seeing that the planes ordered are "necessary in the national defense" and that they include the "maximum utilization" of improvements in aircraft consistent with defense needs.

Repeats Review Plans

The President recalled that he had told Congress he intends to review the entire military program in September and again in December. He indicated that, with this in mind, he may not release funds for the extra 822 millions in plane orders until later in the year, if then.

"The Congress has seen fit to provide 822 million dollars beyond the amount which I considered necessary," he said.

"Provision has been made (in the bill), however, that the funds shall not be spent without a finding by the President that the 'contracts let are necessary in the national defense,' and that the procurement results in the maximum utilization of improvements in aircraft and equipment consistent with the defense needs of the United States.'"

State Police Close Private Stores in Yugoslav Capital

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, May 21 (AP). Security police have closed down nearly every privately owned shop and store in this capital.

The swift police action, starting early yesterday and continuing through today, was believed to be a final move in completely nationalizing all commerce and trade.

Today the shops had signs saying they were now "Belgrade stores." Inside, government clerks were taking inventory.

It was not known here whether the same action had taken place throughout the country.

Owners said they received no receipts from authorities, but it was believed that they would after a complete inventory has been made.

'Unbelievable' Escapade

Two Boys Steal Plane, Fly It 150 Miles by Comic Book Lore

Oklahoma City, May 21 (U.P.).—Two fifth-grade boys will tell a judge Saturday how they played hookey from school, stole an airplane, flew it 150 miles by reading comic books, landed safely in a pasture, stole a horse and finally, ended up in jail.

The youngsters were out of jail today, and over-the-knee punishment already had begun, their parents told officers.

Eleven-year-old Jimmy Bodard, son of a well-known attorney, told police he learned to fly by reading comic books. His father, Burney P. Bodard, said:

"He was up only once before in his life and that was several years ago."

All concerned agreed that the escapade of Jimmy and 12-year-old Ronald Peterson, son of Mrs. Dorothy Peterson Knight, was "unbelievable."

The adventure of the fifth-graders began Monday afternoon when they sneaked off to the downtown airport here to watch the planes.

Trooper Arch Hamilton of the State Highway Patrol, said the airplane was not stolen until Tuesday.

"They said they went to the air park Monday and hung around all afternoon," related Hamilton. "That night they slept in a plane."

"A little after 5 p. m. Tuesday they pushed an Ercoupe out of the hangar onto the runway, revved it up and took off. They said they took turns flying and didn't have any trouble," police said.

The Ercoupe, a plane designed for inexperienced fliers, had about 20 gallons of gasoline in its tanks.

The boys landed the aircraft 8 miles northwest of Cheyenne, Okla., only a few miles from the border of the Texas Panhandle, Hamilton reported.

The plane was found Wednesday. The boys, who had "borrowed" a saddle horse and rode into Cheyenne, were picked up as runaways there Tuesday night. They were held in jail that night but had been sent home here before the plane was found.

4-Day Talks Fail to Bring Rail Peace

All Signs Point To Undetermined Period of Federal Operation of Roads

By The Associated Press

Conferences on the labor dispute which threatened to tie up the Nation's railroads last week ended yesterday without agreement.

The Government continues in technical possession of the railroads, at least until May 29, when a court order forbidding a strike runs out. The dissatisfied engineers, firemen and switchmen keep on working, and the trains will continue to run.

All indications point to an undetermined period of Government operation. If the lines were turned back to private management, the court order forbidding the strike could not be renewed. Although no formal announcement has been made, it was assumed the Government will ask the District Court here to extend the injunction.

No further conferences on the dispute have been scheduled. The talks, arranged by Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman, have gone on four days.

See Act Flouted

The railroads' negotiators—H. A. Enochs, D. P. Loomis and C. D. Mackay—issued a statement declaring that the unions had "flouted" a provision of the Railway Labor Act which provides for investigation of such disputes by a presidential board which makes recommendations for settlement.

In this case, President Truman's fact-finding board last March recommended a pay increase of 15½ cents an hour—the same boost as was accepted by other rail unions—and certain changes in working rules which also would have the effect of increasing the employes' pay.

The heads of the three unions issued a statement saying they had presented a number of plans during the last four days in which they revised their demands downward.

Management negotiators, the union chiefs said, pointed to the report of the presidential board and said, "Take it or leave it."

Not Bargaining, Say Leaders

"That is not bargaining," said the union chiefs. "And it is obvious that at no time during the four days did management have any intention of bargaining either in spirit or in fact. Instead management is determined that the voluntary spirit of the Railway Labor Act shall be converted into compulsion. We have no intention of entering into an agreement which subverts that act."

Asked at a news conference if a strike would result in case the existing court order were lifted, D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, quickly replied:

"No, I think we'd have a settlement right away. As long as the railroads know the court's going

Dewey Takes Early Lead In Oregon

BULLETIN

Portland, Oreg., May 21 (U.P.). Incomplete returns from 316 precincts throughout Oregon gave: Dewey 12,102; Stassen 9460.

Portland, Oreg., May 21 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey jumped into an early lead over Harold E. Stassen tonight on initial incomplete returns from today's Republican presidential primary elections.

The count from 146 of Oregon's 1861 precincts gave Dewey 5943, Stassen 4930.

Dewey, about as expected, was running up a heavy count in Portland and Multnomah County, which normally casts a third of the State's vote.

Although the New York Governor was ahead on scattered and inconclusive returns in 14 of Oregon's 36 counties, with Stassen holding a lead in six counties, the up-State race was close.

Dewey's Multnomah County lead when 146 precincts were represented was about two-thirds of his overall margin at that juncture. The count from 71 of the County's 512 precincts was Dewey 2383, Stassen 1637.

Early reports showed uniformly heavy voting in almost all parts of the State. As high as 15 to 20 per cent of the registered Republicans had cast ballots in the first two and a half hours. The polls were closed at midnight (EDT.)

2 Film Writers Sentenced For Contempt

Trumbo, Lawson Get Year, $1000 Fines For Red Quiz Silence

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Two top movie writers got a year in jail and $1000 fine yesterday for refusing to tell Congress whether they belonged to the Communist Party.

They were Dalton Trumbo and John Howard Lawson, the first two of the 10 Hollywood notables brought to trial here for defying the House Un-American Activities Committee. Eight others accused with them of contempt of Congress have waived jury trials, but will not be dealt with until after appeals of Trumbo and Lawson are decided.

Attorney Charles A. Houston of Washington moved for a new trial for Trumbo. Justice David A. Pine turned him down, then listened to Houston's earnest plea for a suspended sentence. Houston said Trumbo—who got $80,000 a year for writing movies like "Kitty Foyle" and "A Guy Named Joe"—defied the House committee out of a sense of public duty, and ought not to be dealt with harshly.

The slight, genial Trumbo did not take the stand to defend himself, where he might have been liable to be asked again whether he was a Communist. His first statement in the trial since he pleaded not guilty was a short statement yesterday. He told Justice Pine that he felt the House committee's question about his party membership was a blow at secrecy of the ballot, and thus at the Constitution.

Justice Pine said Trumbo was aided by able lawyers when he was haled before the committee, and that Trumbo flagrantly de-

The Gallup Poll

Majority Say U. S. Should Aid States In Financing Education

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., May 21.—A majority of American voters believe that the Federal Government should help State governments finance their school systems.

Almost one in three, however, thinks that the cost of education should be financed entirely by the individual States.

People who believe a number of States do not provide satisfactory schooling for their children are much more likely to be in favor of Federal school assistance.

This issue is now before Congress in the form of the Taft bill, already passed by the Senate, under which the National Government would spend about 300 million dollars annually in school aid. A similar bill is being considered by the House Committee on Education and Labor.

Public sentiment on the issue was tested by this question, asked of representative voters throughout the country:

"There is a bill now before Congress which asks that the Federal Government distribute about 300 million dollars a year to the States for school aid. Do you think Congress should provide the money for this purpose, or should school aid be left up to each State?"

The answers:

Approve Federal aid	51%
Qualified approval	5
Left up to State aid	31
No opinion	13

Respondents giving qualified approval said mainly that Federal aid should go only to the States most in need of financial help in raising educational help, which is the general intent of the Taft bill.

Main reasons for those supporting Federal aid are that it would raise teachers' salaries, that States needing better schools are unable to finance improvements, and that the Federal Government would do a better job than the States are now doing.

Voters opposing the proposal say that each State knows its own problems best, that Federal Government has enough power now, and that the money would be wasted.

Proponents of Federal aid to schools cite considerable differences in per capita wealth in individual States, which, they say, have caused unevenness in the quality of education available to children. The proposed legislation represents an attempt to bring all States up to a minimum standard.

Half the voters in today's poll believe some States are below standard in providing education.

The cross-section was asked:

"Do you think there are any States in this country which do not provide a good enough (satisfactory) education for children?"

Fifty-one per cent answered in the affirmative, 20 per cent said

Men Vote Return On Company Terms; Stoppage Holds At Wilson Plants

Chicago, May 21 (AP).—The 67-day Nation-wide CIO meat handlers strike—marked by occasional rioting and bloodshed and mobilization of National Guard troops in two States—was called off today against all of the major meat packers except Wilson & Co. The strike was ended on company terms.

The United Packinghouse Workers Union called off the work stoppage after the workers voted in favor of a back-to-work movement at Swift, Armour and Cudahy plants. Nearly 100,000 were on strike.

Union officials said the strike would continue in seven Wilson and Company plants normally employing about 8000 workers this time of year.

Philip Weightman, international vice president of the union, said today's action ended the strike only at Swift, Armour and Cudahy plants. He said it was expected that the strike would also end at Rath, Morrell and other struck packers. However, he added that depended on "local circumstances."

Voting at Ottumwa

At Waterloo, Iowa, Russell Bull, union spokesman there, said that workers would vote tonight at Ottumwa, Iowa, on a proposal by Morrell. The Rath Packing Co. at Waterloo has not yet offered the local there a proposal, Bull added. The Rath plant was the scene of violent rioting Wednesday when one picket was killed and another—a woman—was wounded.

Ralph Helstein, union president, said pickets would be withdrawn Saturday at 24 Swift, 25 Armour and 10 Cudahy plants throughout the country. The workers, he said, would be back on the job Monday.

The union charged in a statement that Wilson refused to recognize the validity of a written contract still in effect. There was no immediate comment from Wilson.

The action against Wilson was in line with an earlier recommendation from union leaders. Union leaders said Swift, Armour and Cudahy had offered arbitration of discharged workers for unlawful strike acts.

Called Peril to Union.

Wilson, union leaders added, insisted the company reserve the right to reemploy strikers and refused to rehire strikers charged with unlawful acts. Herbert March, strike director, said Wilson, by its terms, would rehire anyone they wished without regard for senior-

'Big Adventure' Of Twin Girls, 5, Ends in Drowning

Denton, Md., May 21 (AP).—Connie Sue and Bonnie Lou Cole, 5-year-old twins, skipped away from home on a big adventure today and drowned in Garland Lake.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Cole, were at work. Their grandfather and an uncle were in a field but did not see the little girls go by on their way to the popular summer-time picnic ground about a mile from their home northeast of Denton.

Mrs. Frank Bailey, who operates Garland Lake with her husband, saw them as she was dressing. They were standing on the pier.

She went to the pier but when she arrived all she could find was two pairs of shoes, two pairs of stockings and two little pocketbooks.

After a search, she waded into the water up to her waist and found the bodies on the bottom.

Gambler Says Income Ended Tuesday (First Day of Probe)

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

A gambler told District Court yesterday that his source of income was cut off last Tuesday—which happens to be the day the special grand jury probe of gambling began here.

Reason for this refreshing candor about gambling income is that Philip C. Raynor, 40, of 1628 Fort Dupont st. se., seeks a reduction in the $275 monthly alimony to his divorced wife, Rose A. Raynor, 29, of 1363 K st. se.

In his affidavit, Raynor made no indication whether his income loss was connected with the gaming probe, but his affidavit stated:

". . . he has heretofore been engaged in gambling, which was his sole source of income; that on Tuesday, May 18, 1948, he lost all the resources he had and is now no longer engaged in such enterprise . . . (and is) at present attempting to obtain (other) employment . . ."

Lebanon Told To Release 41 U. S. Citizens

By The Associated Press

The United States yesterday demanded the release of 41 American citizens taken off the American Steamship Marine Carp by Lebanese authorities under threat of force.

At the same time the State Department served notice on the Arab world that this country will "view seriously" any discrimination against United States citizens on grounds of race, creed or color.

The 41 Americans, all Jews, were removed from the Marine Carp at Beirut on Wednesday, along with 28 passengers of other nationalities.

All 69 were of military age and were bound for Haifa in the New Jewish state of Israel. Lebanese officials took the position that they might join Jewish fighting forces there. They were last reported interned in former French barracks at Beka, Lebanon.

The State Department announcement said this country "considers that all bearers of American passports, irrespective of race, color or creed, are entitled to an equal extent to the protection of the Government of the United States."

Lowell Pinkerton, United States Minister to Beirut, was instructed to make clear to the Lebanese government that "the United States Government would be compelled to view seriously any such

Atomic Probe Veto Sustained By Senate

Southern Split Helps Prevent FBI Check On Board Nominees

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The Senate yesterday upheld a presidential veto of the Knowland bill authorizing Senate-ordered FBI investigations of Atomic Energy Commission nominees.

The vote was 47 to 29, just four short of the two thirds majority required to override a presidential "No."

It was the first Truman veto to be sustained this year and incidentally dealt the first setback to increasing demands by the Republican Congress for more authority in what the Administration considers its own domain.

A split in the Southern Democratic bloc, which voted solidly against the President in the two last veto tests, helped to sustain the Administration. Eleven Southerners voted to uphold the veto and eight voted against.

Altogether, nine Democrats joined 38 Republicans in voting to override. Twenty-seven Democrats and two Republicans voted "No."

Chairman Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), of the Congressional Joint Atomic Energy Committee, said the veto reverse won't affect the committee's plan to extend the tenure of Atomic Energy Commission members a "compromise" two years.

The President has renominated the five commissioners for one to five-year terms. The two-year extension was ostensibly designed to avoid a confirmation fight, but Democrats charged Republicans hope to turn over to a GOP President the right to make all of the appointments.

Hickenlooper indicated the two-

Egyptians Report Units Are Close to Jerusalem

Arabs Say Hebron Is Captured, Claim Victory Is Near In Holy City Fight

By J. Walter Collins

Cairo, Egypt, May 21 (U.P.). Egypt's army has struck at Bethlehem within 5 miles of Jerusalem from the south while Jews are battling the Arab Legionnaires who entered the city from the north, it was announced tonight.

A communique of the national defense ministry disclosed a lightning 40-miles advance from Beersheba which took advance patrols of the Egyptian army to the edge of Bethlehem less than 5 miles south of Jerusalem.

A light mobile striking force took Hebron, 18 miles south of Jerusalem, in its stride and sent its patrols on to face Bethlehem.

Losses Claimed Slight

It was believed that the Egyptians already had effected contact in the Bethlehem area with King Abdullah's Arab Legion.

"Our light forces have been able to enter Hebron at noon today," the communique said.

"Our advance patrols are now operating in front of Bethlehem.

"Our losses in lives were slight."

As the ground forces swept on, the Egyptian air force bombed steel mills and oxygen plants near Tel Aviv and the Ramleh airfield southeast of the Jewish capital.

Heavy damage was done, the communique asserted, in these raids and in attacks on railroad stations along the coastal railroad.

City's Fall Indicated as Near

Egypt's advance to the environs of Jerusalem was the most dramatic of the week-old Arab-Jewish war. It was indicated that Arab capture of all Jerusalem might be near.

Arab Legionnaires were reported winning control of the Old City area of Jerusalem.

(A United Press Tel Aviv dispatch said it was feared there that the Jewish inhabitants of Jerusalem had no chance of a successful withdrawal because Arabs dominated the country around it.)

A communique from Amman, Trans-Jordan, disclosed that the Arab Legion artillery, east and north of Jerusalem, had started a bombardment of the Holy City's southern suburbs. Talpiyot and Meqor Hayim were the chief targets.

The Trans-Jordan communique said the Mea Shearim quarter of Jerusalem just north of the walled city area was under fire.

The Legion guns have silenced Jewish strongpoints in the grounds of the Hadassah Hospital and Hebrew University on Mount Scopus, at the northeast side of the city, and a demand has been made for surrender of the positions, it was said.

Legion artillery was turned on the Hadassah Hospital and the university because of activity of Jewish

Truman to Confer With Head of New Jewish State

President Truman has invited Dr. Chaim Weizmann, head of the new Jewish state of Israel, to come to Washington for a conference as the guest of the United States Government.

Dr. Weizmann will confer with President Truman at the White House Tuesday morning at 11:30 o'clock. In making the announcement yesterday, Press Secretary Charles G. Ross explained that Mr. Truman wanted to talk to Dr. Weizmann before the latter leaves for Israel.

Earlier yesterday Israel asked the State Department to recognize Eliahu Epstein as its Minister to the United States.

Gromyko Demands Palestine War End

Pray for Arabs

Moslems Hit Jewish State Recognition

Karachi, Pakistan, May 21 (U.P.).—Three thousand Moslems prayed in mosques for Palestine's Arabs today and then demonstrated at the United States Embassy protesting American recognition of the new Jewish state of Israel.

The government of Pakistan, which is the world's largest Islamic nation, proclaimed the day "Palestine Day," in sympathy to fellow Moslems in the Holy Land. Business was at a standstill throughout the country and public transportation was suspended.

Crowds marched through the streets shouting and waving flags.

The largest mob marched from prayer to the embassy. Leaders climbed on window ledges and shouted their protests against recognition of Israel.

Speakers condemned the United States, Russia and other nations which have recognized the new state.

American officials rigged up a loudspeaker and Ambassador Paul Alling, through an interpreter, promised to convey the Pakistan sentiment to Washington.

military posts, the communique said.

When the posts had been silenced, the communique said, the Legion asked their surrender through the International Red Cross.

It was announced the legion had captured the Jewish settlement and big potash works at Kallia, on the north shore of the Dead Sea 15 miles east of Jerusalem. The Jews abandoned the positions after setting fire to them, it was added.

The Defense Ministry denied reports that Egyptian planes dropped bombs on a Tel Aviv bus station. (Forty-eight persons were killed in the attack by Arab planes.)

Jewish Counterattacks Reported in 2 Areas

Tel Aviv, Israel, May 21 (AP).—Counterattacks by Jewish forces were reported tonight in the Haganah army communique which said there were "no changes in the battle for Jerusalem's Old City."

The counterattacks occurred in the Sheikh Jarrah quarter at the base of Mount Scopus and in Beit Sefafa, just south of Jerusalem.

A high-ranking staff officer of the Jewish army said Jewish forces are holding virtually unbroken the boundaries of their state, despite Arab claims to the contrary.

The officer added that in some cases Jewish forces were operating beyond the boundaries as set up by the United Nations partition plan.

He denied Arab statements that the Arab Legion and Egyptian forces had linked at Beersheba and said the Legion was there but the Egyptians had not arrived yet.

The spokesman identified the targets of the Jewish air force last night as Gaza airfield and Arab Legion concentrations in a northern suburb of Jerusalem.

Arab planes again struck at Tel Aviv, Israel's capital, today. A flight of two or three fighter bombers dive-bombed through light anti-aircraft fire over a northern district of the city. Haifa had its first air-raid warning today, but no planes appeared.

A Jewish communique said Jewish forces had ousted Arab troops from the village of Samakh and seized a great quantity of arms and munitions.

(The Syrians said, however, that their entrenched troops had struck out from Samakh and destroyed the nearby villages of Degania A and Degania B.)

The Jewish air strikes set fires at the Gaza Airfield, which the Egyptians have occupied, an announcement said. An attack was made also on Shu'fat, a northern suburb of Jerusalem.

A rooftop defense post shot down an Egyptian plane yesterday at Rehovot, 11 miles southeast of Tel Aviv.

The Jewish raids were the second and third carried out by Israeli aircraft since the termination of the British mandate early Saturday. Censorship cloaked the size of the Jewish air force and the type of planes used.

Because of Arab air attacks, Israel will go on double daylight saving time, advancing clocks two hours tomorrow at midnight. The change will give workers two hours more sleep.

Lake Success, May 21 (AP).—Andrei A. Gromyko demanded today that the United Nations stop the Arab-Jewish war in Palestine without further ado.

The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister spoke after the 11-nation Security Council heard a blunt report from its consular truce commission in Jerusalem that a strong U. N. neutral armed force is the only way to stop the fighting.

Gromyko said the Council must accept an American proposal for strong action.

But the Council turned to the Czechoslovak-Communist case without any indication when a decision would come on Palestine.

Gromyko blasted a British plea for peaceful mediation as insufficient and accused Britain of quibbling.

King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan was described by Gromyko as a modern Near East Caesar supported by Britain.

Faris el Khoury, Syria, said the American resolution would not be accepted by the Arabs.

The three-member consular commission recommended the Council look into application of the strongest articles of the U. N. charter against threats to peace.

Count Folke Bernadotte, who was named last night as U. N. mediator for Palestine, said in Stockholm he would leave soon for Palestine to exploit what he called a 1-in-100 chance for peace by this means.

Trygve Lie, U. N. secretary-general, announced that Dr. Ralph Bunche, American Negro expert in the U. N. Trusteeship Affairs Division will meet Count Bernadotte in Paris next Tuesday. Dr. Bunche will go as Lie's chief representative.

Harold Evans, of Philadelphia, named U. N. administrator of the Holy City as a neutral mayor, said in Philadelphia he would attempt reconciliation in the Near East.

Evans, a Quaker, said developments had made it impossible to carry out the U. N. plan. He will leave tomorrow for Cairo.

[The United Press reported that the United States, after persuading Belgium to reverse its position, had tentatively lined up the seven votes needed to put over its proposal for stern U. N. intervention in Palestine. Russia and the Soviet Ukraine were other United States supporters. This left the resolution hanging on one question: would Britain or China, both flatly opposed, use their veto to block it?]

Desperate Jewish Force Clings To Small Area in Old City

By Daniel De Luce

Inside the Old City of Jerusalem, May 21 (AP). — A desperate band of Jews clung to a rubbled fortress 300 yards square in the Old City of Jerusalem tonight after four days of the Arab Legion's efforts to crush or dislodge them.

Arab artillery screamed over Jerusalem in all directions as Legion gunners raked at Jewish outlooks and gunposts of high points supporting the small grim band of Israelis penned against the 400-year-old walls.

Five times Arab dynamite squads set off charges in Tiferet Yisrael Synagogue, tallest building in the Jewsh quarter of the Old City, which the Arabs thought they had captured yesterday. But Jews clung to the domed roof and underground chambers and crawled out for sniping shots today. The five huge charges blew down the north wall of the old synogogue.

Arab artillerymen for the second day turned shellfire on American-financed Hadassah Hospital and Hebrew University on Mount Scopus and demanded that the 400 Jewish fighters surrender or die. The Arabs said Jewish machine-gunners and mortar crews at the hospital and university opened up on Arabs in the Sheikh Jarrah and Wadi el Joz quarters at the base of the mount this morning.

Legion howitzers also battered Jewish positions on Mount Zion in the vicinity of Dormition Church, reputed scene of the Virgin Mary's death, and Crusader Hall where the Last Supper is supposed to have been held.

The Arabs said Jews launched a counterattack from Mount Zion last night in a vain attempt to free the Old City's beleaguered garrison.

Beit Yaacov Synagogue was now the key position in the 300-yard square area which front-line Arab fighters estimated the Jews were holding in the Old City.

British Fear War Effects On Oil Supply

London, May 21 (U.P.) — British experts expressed concern today over the effect of Palestine fighting on Middle East oil supplies.

They feared any slow-up of oil would cut into the Marshall Plan and endanger the entire world oil situation.

Eighty per cent of the oil required for the European Recovery Program in the next four years is expected to come from the Middle East. Marshall Plan experts assumed Middle East oil production would be doubled between now and 1951.

But experts say the loss only of Haifa's refineries could reduce the world's oil supply by four million tons per year.

The Iraq Petroleum Co. has stopped work on a Haifa branch designed to double pipeline deliveries to the Mediterranean port city.

105 Jews Refuse To Sail From Haifa

Haifa, Israel, May 21 (AP).—One hundred and five Jews, including 25 American citizens, refused to sail aboard the Marine Carp for the United States today because they were not guaranteed safe passage through Arab territory.

The ship sailed for Alexandria, Egypt. Sixty-nine Jews, including 41 Americans, were removed from the American vessel yesterday at Beirut.

The 105 persons left behind asked to have the ship returned to Haifa after the call at Alexandria. Jewish officials had warned the Jews that they would travel through Arab territory at their own risk.

Fifty-one Jews—mostly women and children—were permitted to continue to Haifa by Lebanese troops.

The 51 cabled President Truman protesting the lack of American protection. Their cable said United States consular officers had failed to intervene.

Hoffman Picks 8 Advisers on Fiscal Matters

A eight-member advisory committee on fiscal and monetary problems was appointed yesterday by Paul G. Hoffman, economic cooperation administrator.

The group of bankers and economists, headed by George L. Harrison, board chairman of the New York Life Insurance Co., will be available to advise Hoffman on stabilizing European currencies and checking inflation.

Several members of the group met today with Hoffman and other ECA officials, as well as Undersecretary of the Treasury A. L. M. Wiggins and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Thomas B. McCabe. No policy questions were discussed, ECA officials said.

In addition to Harrison, members of the advisory group are:

E. E. Brown, chairman of the First National Bank, Chicago; W. Randolph Burgess, vice chairman of the National City Bank, New York; Jay E. Crane, director of Standard Oil Co., of New Jersey; Joseph M. Dodge, president of the Detroit Bank of Detroit, Mich., and president of the American Bankers Association; Allan Sproul, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York; Walter W. Strategic Air Command Going Inland

By Charles W. Corddry
United Press Reporter

The Strategic Air Command, nerve center of the Nation's long-range bombing forces, will be moved inland to Omaha where it will have greater safety against attack and closer contact with its B-29 bases, it was disclosed yesterday.

The command, under Gen. George C. Kenney, is now at nearby Andrews Field, Md., which it will vacate within 90 days. Its new site, Offutt Air Force Base, Omaha, is almost at the geographical center of the United States.

As the command moves out, the new Military Air Transport Service commanded by Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, will move from Washington National Airport to Andrews Field. And remaining at Andrews will be the 4th Jet Fighter Group and the 311th Air Division which conducts long-range reconnaissance missions with B-29 Superforts and other craft.

Other Changes Announced

In other changes, the 55th Reconnaissance and 7th Geodetic Control Groups will be moved from MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla., to Topeka, Kans., now temporarily inactive. The 91st Reconnaissance Wing will be reestablished and stationed at Topeka also.

These moves will start in September and be completed by next summer.

Kenney's command is responsible for "long-range operations in any part of the world, at any time, either independently or in cooperation with land and sea forces." That includes sustained bombardment, reconnaissance, anti-submarine activity and special missions.

The main elements in the veteran strategist's 45,000-man command are the Eighth Air Force, which had headquarters at Fort Worth, Texas, under Maj. Gen. Roger Ramey, and the Fifteenth Air Force, with headquarters at Colorado Springs, Col., under Maj. Gen. Leon W. Johnson.

Besides those, the Strategic Air Command includes the 307th bomb group at Tampa, Fla., Eighty-second fighter group at Manchester, N. H., and the Fifty-sixth jet fighter group at Mount Clemens, Mich.

Facilities Excellent

The air force said the Omaha base affords excellent housing, communications and base facilities. It is located strategically with reference to the string of air bases which Kenney commands. These are:

MacDill Field, Tampa, Carswell Field, Fort Worth, Davis Monthan Field, Tuscon, Ariz., Walker Air Base, Roswell, N. M., Kearney Air Base, Kearney, Nebr., Castle Field, Manchester, Weaver Air Base, Rapid City, S. D., Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, Mich., Smoky Hill Air Base, Salina, Kans., Biggs Field, El Paso, Tex., Spokane Air Base, Spokane, Wash., Colorado Springs, and Topeka.

Kenney, now commands about 12 B-29 heavy bombardment groups.

U. S. and Russia Urged by Wallace To Hold Meeting

Seattle, May 21 (AP).—Henry A. Wallace said today he thought America should "fairly call on Russia in open conference to stop the spread of communism in other nations."

Interviewed on the radio at an appearance in the Washington State Press Club, Wallace said he felt "the outlawing of the methods of mass destruction should be the first step" in any joint action by the two nations.

Asked how, assuming he was elected, he would attempt to reach a disarmament agreement, Wallace said he felt the whole question should be taken up in conference by the governments of Russia and the United States.

Truman Signs Bill Providing Air Expansion

that the total national defense program be based on a sound economic system and depend on a level of expenditures which can be supported in subsequent years.

"It is therefore my intention to carry out the provisions of the present act with this in mind."

Defense Secretary James Forrestal repeatedly warned Congress during hearings on the bill that any effort to expand the Air Force to 70 groups would require a "balancing" increase in the other defense forces. He said the overall program would be too costly and would put too great a strain on the Nation's economy at present.

Congressional supporters of the larger Air Force insisted it was "minimum protection" the Nation could afford in view of the tense international situation. Opponents of the move charged, on the other hand, that Congress was trying to "buy security" with dollars rather than approve a draft and universal military training in an election year.

President Truman, in approving the plane-buying bill yesterday, was plainly saying that under its terms, he will have final say over the air power program—for the remainder of this year at least.

He proposed a supplemental defense budget providing for a bolstered 55-group Air Force, plus additional sums for new planes to modernize them. Congressional air power backers insisted on expanding to 70 groups, together with more modernization money.

Forrestal proposed a compromise—66 active groups without additional modernization funds. Congress voted the latter—822 millions more—anyway. They, apparently, are going along with the plan to expand to 66 groups only at this time.

In the present 55-group force, there are about 5500 active combat planes and some 7500 in storage. The 70 groups will mean 6869 active combat planes, with 8100 in storage. The USAF program means more than just increasing the 5500 planes in the 55 groups to 6869 in 70 groups. Year by year the old planes will be replaced.

This will require building thousands of planes, costing billions of dollars, with the funds being provided now just a starter.

Under the bill, the Air Force gets $773,100,000 originally scheduled to become available July 1; 450 million dollars in a request made after next year's budget was drawn; 250 million dollars to pay off obligations previously authorized; and 822 million dollars in new contract authority.

The Navy gets a 478 million dollar advance against next year's appropriations; 275 million dollars asked since the 1949 budget was set; and 150 million dollars to cover contracts previously authorized.

Compromise Draft Plan May Exempt 18-Year-Olds

By the United Press

A compromise plan to save the draft by knocking out compulsory service for 18-year-olds was reportedly taking shape in the Senate yesterday.

House Republicans were strongly urging the move. They fear their chamber will kill any draft which takes in 18-year-olds.

Senate GOP leaders were said to be ready to go along.

The plan would wipe out the provision of the Senate bill requiring youths of 18 to take a year's training in Army camps in this country. The 18-year-olds would, however, still be allowed to volunteer for a year as provided in the present version.

The bill also calls for a two-year draft of men 19 through 25. This is the only provision of the House Draft bill which is awaiting Rules Committee clearance for floor action. If the proposed change is made in the Senate bill, both versions thus would be similar.

Chairman Chan Gurney (R., S. Dak.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee, refused to comment, but it was disclosed that he is sounding out his members on the compromise. He may offer it as an amendment on the Senate floor next week if a majority backs it.

Gurney himself is a strong advocate of training 18-year-olds, and has long been a backer of universal military training.

Socialists to Direct Italy Marshall Plan

Playing It Safe

Reds Urge Czech Vote En Masse

Prague, Czechoslovakia, May 21 (U.P.).—Czechoslovaks are being encouraged to vote en masse for the single government list of candidates in the May 30 elections.

Same town councils, not satisfied with the complete elimination of ballots listing opposition candidates, announced their voters will parade to cast their ballots for the single government list.

Those who fail to fall in line will be regarded as "saboteurs" who plan to cast blank ballots.

A growing list of villages and towns are pledging themselves to a 100 per cent vote for the government.

Prizes are offered "patriotic" precincts with the best voting records.

By Barrett McGwin

Rome, May 21 (NYHT).—Italy's anti-Communist Socialists agreed today to take charge of the administration of the Marshall Plan inside Italy.

The agreement virtually guarantees that Marshall Plan funds will be used at least in part to promote some of the social reforms which some observers consider essential in Italy unless this country is to fall eventually to communism.

Acceptance of the post by the right-wing Socialists infuriated the Communists. The latter fear that the mild, nonrevolutionary reforms which the right-wing Socialists demand may correct abuses upon which the Communists have counted as their road to power. The Communists daily "L'Unita" today charged the agreement was the direct result of "orders from Truman" transmitted by Alberto Tarchiani, Italy's Ambassador to Washington. Tarchiani returned to Rome several days ago.

The offer of the direction of the Marshall Plan was made to the right-wing Socialists by Prime Minister Alcide de Gasperi as the latter entered the final stages of his month-long effort to create a new cabinet. De Gasperi said he is prepared to appoint Roberto Tremelloni, one of the anti-Communist Socialists, as minister without portfolio in the new cabinet with direct supervision of the Marshall Plan. Tremelloni's party accepted.

The agreement with the Socialists cleared away all but one hurdle in De Gasperi's task as he worked to create his sixth successive cabinet formation since first taking office as prime minister in December, 1945. The Liberals indicated today they are troubled about the possibility granting of Marshall Plan control to the right-wing Socialists may mean that Italy is embarking on a nationalization experiment.

Assistants of De Gasperi assured the Liberals today that although Tremollini will be directly in charge of the Marshall Plan, De Gasperi will retain veto power as prime minister and that there will be several other conservative checks on the Socialists.

Ousted Czech Asserts Soviet Runs Regime

Lake Success, May 21 (AP).—A former Czechoslovak delegate to the United Nations charged today that Russia maintains firm control over foreign and domestic activities of the Prague Communist regime.

Dr. Jan Papanek, fired after the Communists grabbed power in February, told the Security Council that Czech Ambassadors and Ministers the world over must report daily to the Soviet embassies. He said the Prague government could sent no diplomat abroad without clearance from the Kremlin.

Dr. Papanek took the floor during council debate on a Chilean demand for a U. N. investigation of Russia's role in the Communist coup. Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko has served notice he will veto the proposal.

"Already 10,000 men, women and children have fled from Czechoslovakia bareheaded, leaving their homes and their loved ones," Papanek said.

Papanek said he has proof the Communists attempted to kill Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk, later announced as a suicide.

He charged that Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov exerted pressure on Masaryk throughout U. N. meetings to force the Czechs to take the Soviet line on all issues.

Gromyko replied that Papanek's accusations were a slander. He then took up the speech point by point and replied to the charges.

No vote was taken. The case will come up again Monday or Tuesday.

The council had maneuvered two hours attempting to avoid a Russian veto. It was the second time that the 11 delegates had wrangled into the night under the shadow of Russia's twenty-fourth veto.

Gromyko sought to block adjournment and seemed eager to use what may be his farewell veto. Gromyko has used all the Soviet vetoes except one.

fied the committee, in order to challenge its authority. If Trumbo were right, said the justice, then he ought not to be punshed at all; but if he was wrong—as the justice and a District Court jury have held—then his punishment ought to be in keeping with the degree of his defiance.

Lawson, also a highly paid film writer, was sentenced by Justice Edward M. Curran. The justice sat in silence while Lawson read a long statement. He said he did what he thought was right, when he refused to tell the committee whether he was a Communist. To compromise, he said, would place the rights of others in peril.

Lawson did not take the witness stand at his trial.

Both writers were left free on $1000 bail each, until their appeals are heard.

Both men got the same sentences. It was learned that this came about without any conference, or agreement, between Justices Pine and Curran. Both judges came to the conclusion that the writers ought to get the limits.

Justice Pine gave Eugene Dennis, secretary of the Communist Party, a year in jail for refusing to give up records called for by the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Britain Signs Trade Treaty With Brazil

London, May 21 (U.P.).—Britain and Brazil agreed today on a new trade treaty calling for the exchange of more than 400 million dollars' worth of goods this year, the Board of Trade announced.

The announcement came as authoritative sources reported that British commercial experts were working out details of a long-range trade agreement with Russia.

The Board of Trade announced earlier that Britain's "last hope" export program had failed to match record imports during April, leaving this country 218 million dollars in the red for the month.

The Brazilian agreement, signed in Rio de Janeiro, calls for Brazilian importation during 1948 of more than £50,000,000 ($200,000,000) worth of British manufactures. Britain agreed to import a similar amount of Brazilian staples.

Payments both ways will be in pounds, overcoming the dollar shortage in both countries.

The reported Russian agreement now under study would supplement the Anglo-Soviet pact signed last December. So far Russia has neither set a date for new talks nor completed details of the earlier pact.

Official sources said shipments of Russian feed grains have been flowing smoothly into Britain, but that Russia has taken virtually no action so far on tentative contracts for three quarters of the British exports covered by the pact.

Britain's exports were still pouring out of the country at the highest levels in history. Board of Trade figures show that last month's exports were 132 per cent higher than in 1938, even allowing for the rise in prices over the past 10 years.

Guerillas Kidnap Greek Children, U. N. Group Says

Salonika, Greece, May 21 (AP).—A United Nations Committee reported today that many Greek children had been kidnaped by Guerillas and spirited into Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia. Press and other reports have said the figure exceeded 4000.

The United Nations special committee on the Balkans said it had found enough cases to believe the kidnapings were part of an organized "plan."

It cited "the appearance of Greek children on a large scale in the countries to the north (Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia) and numerous announcements of radios controlled by these governments that the program is being carried out

Russian News Agency Calls Truman Policy 'Aggressive'

Moscow, May 21 (NYHT).—For the Soviet newspaper reader, the Tass News Agency comment on Washington's rejection of Prime Minister Stalin's acceptance of the Wallace proposals as a basis for discussion of Soviet-American differences reaffirms the Soviet contention that the Truman Administration is committeed to an "aggressive" policy.

The record, as published here, shows that Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith, on instructions from Washington, approached Foreign Minister Viacheslav M. Molotov on May 4 with a suggestion of bilateral negotiations; Molotov on May 9 accepted, whereupon Washington repudiated it; Prime Minister Stalin then announced acceptance of the proposals in Henry A. Wallace's "open letter" as a basis for bilateral talks, which Washington again rejected.

Washington's contention that world problems cannot be discussed on a bilateral basis, but must be handled on a multilateral basis through the United Nations, is not taken seriously here, and is not expected to be taken very seriously anywhere else, even in the United States.

Robinson Quits As State Dept. Controls Chief

By the United Press

Hamilton Robinson, storm center of criticism for his part in the State Department's loyalty program, has resigned as director of the department's Office of Controls, it was disclosed last night.

Robinson cleaned out his desk late yesterday as director of the office which frames regulations for security in Government departments and hears the appeals of persons who were dropped by the State Department as "poor security risks."

State Department sources said Robinson's resignation, first submitted last November, was entirely voluntary. It was believed he would enter private law practice in Washington, where he now makes his home. He is a native New Yorker.

Sources close to Robinson said his resignation was prompted by the fact that his activities were under constant fire by congressional committees.

Set Up Wartime Rules

They said the fact that Pulitzer prizes had been awarded recently to two Washington reporters for their revelations of the activities of the Office of Controls was not a factor in Robinson's resignation.

These sources said the 39-year-old executive wanted to resume private law practice in the Capital and would do so after a vacation in northern New York.

Robinson first came under fire as the chairman of the four-man security advisory board of the State-War-Navy Air Force Coordinating Committee. It wrote the minimum regulations—under a White House directive—to set up classified categories for information emanating from all executive departments and agencies.

These proposed regulations would give any excutive agency the right to classify information as "top secret," "secret," "confidential" or "restricted."

Reviewed Loyalty Cases

During the war, these classifications were given only to such sensitive departments as State, War and Navy.

Robinson also has been criticized for his role in passing upon 10 State Department employes who were fired last year as bad security risks. He was a member of the review group which looked over their cases.

That review was the basis for a series of stories by Bert Andrews of the New York Herald Tribune, which won a Pulitzer prize this year.

Nat S. Finney of the Minneapolis Tribune also was awarded a Pulitzer prize for his part in publicizing a proposal to set up minimum security regulations throughout the Executive Department.

year plan may be called up in the Senate next week. Democrats said it meant another veto, and predicted it, too, would be sustained. In that case the President would have to resort to recess appointments to the AEC.

The Knowland bill, vetoed by the President on May 17, gave Senate members of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee specific authority to require FBI investigations of presidential nominations to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Mr. Truman called it "an unwarranted encroachment of the legislative upon the executive branch." He said the Executive has sole authority over the officers he appoints, and Senate members cannot put a Federal bureau to work for them. He said further that he already had made use of every facility of the executive branch, including the FBI, to obtain facts on his AEC appointments.

Debated for Two Days

The Senate debated the constitutional balance of powers for two days before it voted at 3:30 p. m. yesterday.

Senators Hickenlooper, William F. Knowland (R., Calif.), Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) argued that limited use of an executive agency to supply Congress with facts is not only constitutional but the FBI check is needed to help the Senate determine qualifications of future AEC nominees.

Senators Alben W. Barkley (D., Ky.), Brien McMahon (D., Conn.), Scott W. Lucas (D., Ill.), and Claude Pepper (D., Fla.), said it robbed the President of his constitutional authority over the executive branch and individual bureaus. McMahon predicted the Supreme Court would side with the President if called on to settle the question.

In the two previous veto tests this year Congress had overwhelmingly overridden the President. On April 2 the Senate voted 77 to 10 to override his veto of the tax cut. By an even larger 77 to 7 margin the Senate on April 26 exempted news vendors from the Social Security tax over a veto.

The balance of power clash between Congress and the President meanwhile affected a series of other legislative moves, notably, the House-passed Hoffman bill. This imposes jail sentences and fines on Federal officials from Cabinet rank down who fail to make confidential data available to congressional committees on request.

Taft Advocates 'Substantial' Safety for U. S.

Princeton, N. J., May 21 (AP).—Senator Taft (R., Ohio) advocated tonight a defense "which will make this country substantially safe," but said final decisions must be made by a civilian government.

In an address prepared for delivery before the faculty and students of Princeton University, Taft said, "If we admit the final authority of the military to decide these problems, it means that they will soon have in their hands the entire economic and political future of the United States.

"We would lose a personal liberty and the very freedom which it is the purpose of our defense forces to protect," he said.

Taft's speech climaxed a day of activity in New Jersey to further his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, by bidding for the State's 35 votes in the party's national convention.

His day opened in Trenton with a 9:30 a. m. call on Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll at the State House. Taft held a news conference and returned to his hotel to address the delegates at a luncheon. Late in the day he held a reception for editors and publishers, while Mrs. Taft met with women members of the delegation.

Taft told the news conference he had not joined with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York in a stop-Stassen move in the Oregon primary.

He said he was "not discouraged" after meeting the New Jersey convention delegates.

In his speech at Princeton's Alexander Hall, Taft said:

"While we are hopeful that the Russian offensive will confine itself to an attempt to spread the philosophy of communism throughout the world without the use of the Russian Army, we must recognize the possibility of an attack. . . . We must, under all circumstances, be prepared to meet such an attack.

Taft said "perfectionists in military defense" might insist on such a complete military force that there would be no possibility whatever of any attack from aboard.

"Such a force," he continued, "might cost 50 billion dollars a year and make impossible any reasonable standard of civilian living, or any freedom of this Nation to develop the destines of its people in a free life and an improved material well-being."

To get a defense to make the country "substantially safe," Taft said, "We must be selective among the various means of defense that are proposed. We must not duplicate services. We must abandon those activities which seem to be of secondary importance, or, perhaps, no longer in accord with the new problems of military strategy. Without civilian direction I doubt if such abandonment will occur."

"We do not want support of a military force of ten million men prepared at the drop of a hat to march around the world," Taft told his audience.

Taft predicted Congress will pass a draft law to be used in case voluntary enlistments fail. He said it should be temporary. He called universal military training "contrary to the concept of American liberty."

"Universal military training would not frighten the Russians for a moment, because they could always put three men into the field for one of ours. Only an air force is going to exercise a deterrent effect on their ambitions."

Virden Quits Commerce Job

served with distinction for some time in this country and in Europe in connection with supply problems, at considerable personal sacrifice to himself.

"He is the largest stockholder and operator of a substantial business in Cleveland, Ohio, and has given of his time, experience and thought gladly, and for the most part freely, for the benefit of the public.

"He is competent, honest and experienced. If he decides for any reason to sever his connection with Government service it will be a distinct loss to the public.

"He has never by any act or word indicated the slightest interest in or sympathy with any Communist organization or group, or with the Communist ideology; in fact, his acts, so far as I am informed, indicate not only an unsympathetic but a vigorously antagonistic attitude toward it."

"2. Does a man of the qualities and record above outlined become unfit for public service because his daughter, against his wishes and to his great regret and dismay, has decided to associate herself with a Communist group? To me the answer is no. He is in no way disqualified.

"He disagrees violently with his daughter's decision, has undertaken unsuccessfully to persuade her to follow a different course, and has had no contact with her for several months.

"It is obvious that the exposure of this difficult family situation by the publication of your letter presents a problem to Mr. Virden which is nothing short of tragic.

"I shall ask him to remain."

Tass Says Nothing

Crawford replied that "the Virden case is indeed tragic," adding in a statement:

"It may well open up a new field for consideration as to whether there are others in high Government service who similarly have members of their families on the payroll of the Moscow government or one of its fronts here in the United States.

"National security is thicker than flesh and blood."

Crawford said we must not only deport "aliens directly connected with the Red movement" but also "remove from Government even the fringe cases."

Last night at Commerce it was stated that Virden was determined to quit. He already was breaking in others to take over his work.

At Tass a spokesman said "Nobody is getting anything from here." Miss Virden was reported to be working, but refused to talk. Photographers lined the hallways in the National Press Building awaiting her appearance.

To reporters earlier, Miss Virden had refused to talk because "we don't disseminate news about the bureau."

The department Virden heads principally seeks industry agreements to direct steel and other scarce materials to uses considered most essential.

As chief of that division Virden "does not have access to confidential material which for security reasons could be regarded as critical," Sawyer said.

Six Years in Government

Virden, 51, is a veteran of World War I. Born in Montgomery, Ala., he was reared in Cleveland, Ohio. He has been engaged in Government work of various kinds since 1942, when he became regional director at Cleveland for the War Production Board. In 1945 he was field commissioner for the Army-Navy Liquidation Commission at Cairo. In 1946 he was central field commissioner in Europe for the Office of Foreign Liquidation. This agency aided in disposing of surplus military equipment.

He had returned to his Cleveland business, when called to his present post by former Commerce Secretary W. Averell Harriman.

5-Point Program for Alaska Sent to Congress by Truman

President Truman yesterday sent to Congress a five-point program for the development of Alaska with a request that it be admitted to statehood "at the earliest possible date."

Asserting that Alaska has had territorial government for more than 35 years, Mr. Truman said that it has had "a sufficient period of preparation for its admission as a state."

The program, in addition to asking for congressional action on statehood, calls for:

1. Improving the transportation system.
2. Construction of housing and community facilities.
3. Lands for natives.
4. Encouragement of land settlement.

The President asserted it is in the interest of the United States to assist in developing Alaska's known resources of food, timber and minerals and "to help open economic opportunities on a sound long-term basis."

He said his recommendations would contribute to that program for a territory of 94,000 people and with a population still growing. He urged Congress to enact legislation providing for statehood, noting that the House Committee on public lands "has unanimously recommended such legislation."

Chief of Engineers Is Quitting Army

Retirement of Lieut. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, Chief of Engineers, effective June 30, was announced yesterday.

Gen. Wheeler

General Wheeler, 62, who lives at 2022 Columbia rd. nw., is completing 41 years of Army service, during 17 of which he has maintained residence in Washington. From 1922 to 1926 he served as Assistant Engineer Commissioner for the District.

He became Chief of Engineers October 1, 1945, after 46 months overseas, during which he served as commanding general of the American forces in the India-Burma theater and deputy supreme allied commander for the Southeast Asia Command.

As Chief of Engineers he has directed the greatest program of flood control work and Federal waterway improvements in American history.

General Wheeler, a native of Peoria, Ill., graduated from West Point in 1907.

In 1914 he served with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, then a captain, in Mexico.

During World War I he participated in the Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives, and later served with the Army of Occupation in Germany, and in Italy with the American Commission to Negotiate Peace.

He was with the American military mission in Bagdad when World War II broke out. Shortly thereafter he headed the Asia Supply Command, the biggest in any theater of operation. From the Persian Gulf Command, where he initiated construction of what later became the chief lend-lease supply route to Russia, he moved to India. In March, 1942, he activated a service of supply in the China-Burma-India theater, with headquarters at Karachi and later at New Delhi.

His honors include: Distinguished Service Medal with two oak leaf clusters, Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Air Medal, Order of the British Empire, Honorary Knight Commander; the Cloud and Banner with special Grand Cordon of the Republic of China, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Exalted Order of the White Elephant of the Royal Siamese government, and Honorary Knight of the Indian Empire.

Laborites Pledge Reform of House of Lords

Scarborough, England, May 21 (NYHT).—The forty-seventh annual Labor Party Conference ended today with a promise from the Labor Government that the House of Lords would be reformed to prevent it from killing Socialist legislation.

Herbert Morrison, lord president of the council in the Labor Government, told the 1200 delegates that the House of Lords was a useful institution, but added that it would be reformed. The principal reform he promised was that hereditary membership would be abolished.

He rejected a proposal that the House of Lords be abolished.

The last day of the conference was occupied mainly with domestic issues such as housing. Aneurin Bevan, minister of health, who is in charge of the national housing program, defeated an attack on his administration by disclosing that 900,000 new houses will be completed by the end of this year and that the government's target for the first three years after the end of the war would be reached by October.

AMERICA:
DON'T FINANCE BRITAIN'S WAR AGAINST ISRAEL

ON April 16, Sir Alexander Cadogan, Great Britain's chief delegate to the United Nations, made an official statement reaffirming previous undertakings of the British Government to withdraw the Transjordan Arab Legion from Palestine before May 15, the date of the termination of the British Mandate. These official undertakings of His Majesty's Government have been unabashedly and cynically broken.

The Arab Legion has not only remained in Palestine, but has both before and after May 15 engaged in open aggression against Jewish settlements in the area of the Republic of Israel, as well as in the area of the Arab portion of partitioned Palestine. With British officers at its head, the Transjordan Arab Legion is at this very moment bringing death, destruction and desecration to Jerusalem and its holy places. In open defiance of the United Nations' cease-fire resolution, which was designed to safeguard the Holy City and to which the Arabs had consented, British-led Arab Legionnaires are obliterating some of mankind's most sacred shrines in their murderous assault on civilization itself. The urgent appeals of Christendom's leaders have fallen on deaf ears.

The responsibility for these attacks—for the loss of life and property inflicted by the British-financed, British-trained, British-supplied and British-controlled Arab Legion—rests squarely on the Government of Great Britain. The use of a puppet's army may save the lives of British soldiers and may be exploited as a technical subterfuge, but it does not diminish Britain's culpability.

Having sought to create the impression in American public opinion that the Arab Legion is no longer under British command, and having failed in that attempt, the Foreign Office in London has now announced that it will not halt its monetary subsidy and supply of arms to Abdullah's Legion unless and until the United Nations decides that the Arabs are acting illegally. This shocking statement coincided with an official inspection of the Arab Legion's positions around Jerusalem by Brigadier Glubb, a British officer officially assigned by the War Office to command the Transjordan Legion. Furthermore, the British Foreign Office has announced that Great Britain will continue to supply arms, money and officers to the armies of other Arab states as well.

Great Britain has thus openly admitted its active participation in the war against Israel, a state created on the basis of a decision by the overwhelming majority of the United Nations General Assembly, and a state first recognized by the United States of America.

These facts should be known by all, and the inescapable conclusions therefrom acted upon. Great Britain today supports Arab aggression from Transjordan, Egypt and Iraq with money which comes from the American Treasury; with money supplied by the taxpayers of America.

If moral principles, human decency, justice in international relations and the expressed will of organized mankind have no effect upon the Government of Great Britain, the time has come for the United States to deny to Britain the funds to supply Arab aggressors. The United States Government cannot be expected to finance indirectly an organized onslaught on a friendly state. Nor can peace-loving American citizens—Jews and non-Jews—be expected to contribute to the British-led Arab war to annihilate Israel.

Medal Award To Beard Stirs Institute Row

New York, May 21 (AP).—Historian Charles A. Beard, now 74, today received a gold medal "for distinguishe dachievement" presented by the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

Beard

The award to Beard resulted in some protest from members of the Institute, and Lewis Mumford, author and architect, resigned his membership.

Mumford said his historian's work had been for many years a "one-sided, partial view of history designed to bolster his own isolation."

"I regard the bestowal of this award upon him as a grave breach of trust on the part of the institute," Mumford said.

In presenting the medal, Van Wyck Brooks described Beard as "a constant defender of civil rights and democratic institutions, courageous, combative, a generally troublesome man—bellicose himself and causing bellicosity in others—a thorn in the flesh of his enemies, he has sometimes grieved his friends, who have disagreed with him violently in later years.

"This is a society of artists and writers, it is not a political organization, and our annual medal is always given for an artist's or writer's mair life work."

DAV Agrees To 'Clear Up' Puzzle Contest

By the United Press

The Disabled American Veterans Service Foundation has agreed to clear up misunderstandings regarding its $50,000 puzzle contest to escape a threatened fraud order, the Postoffice Department said yesterday.

Department Solicitor Frank J. Delany made public an affidavit in which the foundation said it would send notices to all entrants giving a fuller explanation of the contest.

The foundation had published full newspaper advertisements inviting the public to enter the contest. Cash prizes of various sums were offered to winners, depending on the amount of their donation or entry fee.

Delany filed a complaint last week charging that the contest had been presented in a false and fradulent manner, and recommended that the Postmaster General issue a fraud order.

The notices to be sent to entrants will say that entry fees will not be paid directly to disabled veterans.

They also will say that, "while it is possible, still it is unlikely that prizes will be won simply by solving one puzzle." They will explain that many high-scoring entrants possibly will be tied on their point scores and will have to submit to "tie-breaker" puzzles.

The foundation also will offer to refund entry fees to any contestant. It said it had not intended to "misrepresent anything to anyone."

Papa Dionne Bans Dates For 2 Years

Callander, Ont., May 21 (U.P.)—Papa Oliva Dionne said tonight that his famous quintuplet daughters will have to wait at least two more years before they start having dates, although they're now lissome black-haired girls who will celebrate their fourteenth birthday a week from today.

Dionne hasn't as yet accustomed himself to the idea of his girls going out with boys.

"They're still pretty young, you know," he said.

The sisters have had no contact with boys except for their brothers. Papa Dionne has not allowed the brothers to bring their friends home.

Today Annette, Cecile, Ehilie, Marie and Yvonne were concerned with their high school entrance examinations and the two birthday parties they will have next week, one a quiet dinner at home with their parents and the second a gay affair at the Villa Notre Dame convent with the nine girls who have been their fellow students this year.

Dewey Leads With 134 Delegates

By the Associated Press

Republicans had chosen 929 of their 1094 national convention delegates up to yesterday as Oregon voters expressed ther preference for the GOP presidential nomination in a Dewey-Stassen test.

With more time to choose, since their convention comes three weeks later, the Democrats had named delegates wth 799 votes in their 1234-vote convention.

The Republicans meet June 21, the Democrats July 12, both at Philadelphia.

With 548 required for the Republican nomination, the first ballot standing today of the delegates pledged, favorable and claimed without dispute:

With 618 needed for a nomination, here's the breakdown of Democratic delegates, pledged and claimed:

President Truman, 473; anti-Truman, 55; uncommitted, 271. Total, 799.

Anti-Truman: Alabama, 15; Florida, 20; South Carolina, 20. (11½ of Florida's votes are pledged to Governor Wright of Mississippi and his move to bolt if Truman is nominated. South Carolina's 20 are pledged to Governor Thurmond of that State.)

Uncommitted and unclaimed: Arkansas, 22; Delaware, 10; Hawaii, 6; Idaho, 12; Illinois, 52; Louisiana, 24; Massachusetts, 1; Michigan, 42; North Carolina, 32; Puerto Rico, 6; Tennessee, 28; Utah, 12; Vermont, 2; Virgin Islands, 2; West Virginia, 20.

Richmond, Va., May 21 (AP).—Leaders in the Virginia Democratic organization foresaw today the selection of two Southerners to direct the Democratic National Convention as a step in the right direction toward healing a rift in the party.

Governor Tuck, a leader in the Southern anti-Truman forces because of the President's civil rights program, had no official comment.

However, others highly placed in the organization said that on the surface it seemed the selection might bring a degree of harmony to the Philadelphia convention.

One organization leader qualified this possibility by saying that the naming of the two borderline Southerners — Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, as keynoter or temporary chairman, and Representative Sam Rayburn of Texas, as permanent chairman—might be only a "come on" gesture to the South.

The belief has apparently been growing among members of the organization in recent weeks that Virginia's delegation may not bolt the convention, even though Mr. Truman is the nominee.

It is generally conceded that the Virginia Democrats will go along with the national party if there is not a civil rights plank in the national platform. However, many supporters of the Governor and Senator Harry F. Byrd have expressed the belief that Virginia will go along regardless of the civil rights issue.

This they saw as a somewhat "bitter pill' alternative to almost certain defeat in the national election if Virginia doesn't support the national nominee.

Outside of the organization, anti-Byrd Democrats openly predicted there would be no Virginia bolt, nor would the State Democratic Convention be called back into session to name a Virginia slate if Mr. Truman is the nominee.

Martin A. Hutchinson, chairman of the Committee for Democracy and leader of the antiorganization wing in the State, said:

"Of course they are not going to bolt the National Convention. They haven't the courage or the intestinal fortitude."

Truman Favored By Vermont Delegates

Rutland, Vt., May 21 (AP).—Vermont Democrats last night chose 10 delegates to the national convention and though they are by tradition unpledged there was indication that President Truman would get four of their six votes.

Two of the 10 delegates have a full vote each while the remaining eight have a half vote.

An informal survey by the Rutland Herald showed Robert W. Ready of St. Albans and James E. Moran of Burlington—each with a full vote—favor Truman as do Russell R. Niquette of Winooski, Harry W. Witters of St. Johnsbury, Charles F. Ryan of Rutland and J. P. Mahoney of Burlington, with a half vote each.

The remaining four were noncommittal. They are Harlan Miller of Arlington, Pat Sulivan of St. Albans, Frank H. Duffyzn, sr., and Dan J. Healy, both of Rutland.

Duffy, 78, was reelected national committeeman. He has held that post for 30 years.

Number Game Writer Fined $750, Jailed

A numbers writer believed working for a big Washington gambler yesterday was fined $750 and sentenced to nine months in prison for accepting a 25-cents numbers bet in Montgomery County.

In imposing sentence on Johnnie Smallwood, 37, of 447 C st sw., Judge Stedman Prescott, of County Circuit Court, told the defendant:

"The Maryland courts are going to keep you Washington men out of here. There are no mitigating factors in your case. By pleading not guilty you have wasted half a day of the court's time."

The sentence, typical of those imposed in the county court on convicted gamblers, was close to the maximum punishment of $1000 and/or one year in jail for operating a lottery.

Smallwood was arrested February 25 by detectives disguised as workmen. They testified he was observed accepting the quarter numbers bet from a workman.

Judge Prescott brushed aside claims by the defense attorney, Paul D. Taggart, that detectives "could not possibly" have identified the number slip from where they were standing 15 feet away and, hence, were not entitled to search Smallwood. Police said they found four numbers books and $165 in cash on his person.

When Taggart introduced a doctor's certificate showing the defendant to be a diabetic, Judge Prescott declared: "The fact that you are sick does not entitle you to violate the criminal laws of Maryland."

The case was a jury trial and the eight men and four women jurors deliberated only five minutes before returning the guilty verdict.

Randolph Leading By 3 to 2 Margin In ITU Election

Indianapolis, May 21 (AP).—International Typographical Union headquarters said late today President Woodruff Randolph has a lead of 3 to 2 in its unofficial election returns.

Voting reported in 271 of the ITU's 850 locals gave Randolph 25,173 votes and his Independent Party opponent, John R. Evans, 16,634.

A spokesman at headquarters said the tally includes most of the large city locals and represents about 60 per cent of the total expected vote.

This source said the incomplete returns are "quite representative."

ITU headquarters said the returns included voting from such major cities as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Washington, Boston, San Francisco, Dallas, St. Louis, Fort Worth, Memphis and Denver.

Touring Turtle Nips D. C. Man But Ends in Policeman's Soup

The Washington Post

THE TALE OF THE TURTLE—Police Sergt. Philip Abel takes the miscreant turtle by the tail

A vagrant turtle which bit a District man early yesterday will find himself in hot water today—literally.

The miscreant, now incarcerated at the Hyattsville home of Police Sergt. Philip Abel, is slated to be billed on the Abel menu today under the heading "snapper soup."

Donovan

It all started at 3 a. m. yesterday when the phone rang at the precinct and a voice reported: "I've just been bitten by a monster turtle in front of my home at 2231 California st. nw. Send police."

"Another one of these early morning jokesters," thought the complaint clerk.

"Go back to bed," the caller was told. You have hallucinations. You'll feel better after a good night's sleep."

But the caller, Daniel J. Donovan, 40, a tax consultant, was adamant. It was a turtle, he said. He was bitten. And the assault did occur on California st.

So, shortly afterward, two scout cars pulled up in front of Donovan's home. Pvts. William T. Taff and Frank A. DiBitetto leaped out—then slowed to a cautious walk as a foot wide, 25-pound turtle, approached them languidly, neck thrust forward in determination.

"I told you so," Donovan greeted the policemen. "Now what?"

After a hurried parley a safe distance from the shellback, the officers secured a bushel basket from a near-by grocery, maneuvered the snapper into it and carted him to their stationhouse. Donovan went to work with iodine on a flesh wound in his left shin.

Police believe the turtle wandered out of Rock Creek Park about four blocks away. Ernest P. Walker, assistant director of the Zoo, said snapping turtles often come up the Potomac and take up habitation in Rock Creek.

Income Ended, Gambler Says

alimony asked, to which Ford had retorted, "He's a tin-horn gambler in court, but when he goes out he's a big shot."

Mrs. Raynor won a divorce last October 8 on grounds of adultery and desertion, and was given custody of the Raynors' 8-year-old child, Rose.

Last month, in a motion filed to reduce his alimony, Raynor stated he owed the Government $4500 on 1943 and 1944 income taxes, which he was paying off at the rate of $150 a month, and said he had personal debts of $1200.

Denies Squandering Thousands

In his affidavit filed yesterday, Raynor denied that "he is squandering or has squandered large sums of money," in response to an affidavit by his wife alleging that he bought the corespondent in the divorce suit a large diamond ring and a fur coat "each valued at several thousand dollars."

Raynor's affidavit yesterday stated that, "at the present time he has no income whatsoever and is unable to borrow from anyone." District Court Justice T. Alan Goldsborough referred the case to the assignment commissioner who will set a date for taking of testimony.

At present, Raynor's attorney is Joseph Sitnick, who yesterday said he had no comment to make.

There was speculation in court yesterday that Raynor's admitted gambling activities might result in his appearance before the special grand jury probing gambling. Fay already has a list of 145 reputed "bigger gamblers of Washington," whose identities have not been disclosed.

The secrecy surrounding the grand jury's actions continued yesterday, but it was learned that the probing group did not meet yesterday afternoon.

County Zoning Hearing Is Set For June 8

Public hearing on the proposed master zoning plan for the urban area of Prince Georges County will be held at 8 p. m. June 8 in the National Guard Armory, Hyattsville, Md.

The hearing will be the culmination of a program of community meetings held under the auspices of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The plan finally must be approved and enacted by the Prince Georges County Commissioners, who also will hold a public hearing before final action.

The proposed ordinance and zoning map will be available for public inspection at the office of the commission, 5406 Queens Chapel rd., Hyattsville, for two weeks prior to the hearing from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, according to Fred W. Tuemmler, director of planning.

Proposals for changes in the text of the ordinance or the zone boundaries may be offered at the public hearing, according to Robert M. Watkins, senior member of the planning commission.

Irwin I. Main is chairman of the planning commission. Staff members of the commission have been working on the ordinance and map for several years.

Police Captain Shot to Death In Own Office

Newark, N. J., May 21 (AP).—A police captain was shot to death at 4 a. m. today with his service revolver behind the closed doors of his private office and 12 hours later, a 39-year-old red-haired waitress was charged with murder in his slaying.

The woman, Mrs. Ann Seamons Powers, had been under constant questioning by police all day.

Police Chief John Haller said Mrs. Powers, of Bloomfield, N. J., had admitted being alone with veteran Police Capt. Thomas J. (Tim) Rowe, 56, in the offices of the precinct he commanded.

She insisted she knew nothing of the shooting and contended that her mind went blank, Haller said.

Mrs. Powers, is separated from her husband.

Rowe was married and a father. He had been on the force for 33 years and had been cited many times for good police work. He took a leading part in the 1935 "Dutch" Schultz gangland killing inquiry.

In 1937 Rowe was involved in a shooting of a 22-year-old girl in his automobile. She said she had been offered a ride by Rowe and when she brushed against his automatic pistol, it went off. She was hit in the thigh. Rowe was cleared of responsibility.

Austrian-born twins attending Coolidge High School are among three Washington boys awarded scholarships to Harvard University, it was announced yesterday.

The twins are Helmut and Werner Furth, 17-year-old sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Furth, 719 Van Buren st. nw. A third scholarship went to Lewis Smith Meriwether, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Yancey D. Meriwether, 5216 4th st. nw. The latter received the annual award made by the Harvard Club of Washington while the twins' awards came from Harvard.

Helmut and Werner Furth who came to the United States from Austria with their parents shortly before the war, are members of the honor society at Coolidge. Helmut is president of the mathematics club and Werner vice president. Both are on the chess and debating teams.

Meriwether, a cadet captain, is president of the school bank, a member of the science and chess clubs, the track team and the honor society.

Senate Rejects Boost In Soil Conservation Pay

The Senate yesterday rejected, 34 to 28, a proposal by Senator Umstead (D., N. C.) to add 100 million dollars to soil conservation payments to farmers for current fiscal year ending June 30.

Umstead offered the amendment during debate on the agricultural appropriations bill for the next fiscal year. It would have increased soil payments the current fiscal year to $250,000,000.

These payments are made to farmers who cooperate with Administration programs.

U. S. Officials Inspect Mine Disaster Site

Dante, Va., May 21 (AP).—Federal Bureau of Mines officials completed late today a check of the site where six miners lost their lives in the No. 2 operation of the Clinchfield Coal Corp. here.

One company official said the mine where tons of coal and earth suddenly broke over six members of a 10-man crew about 8:30 last night only recently underwent a thorough Federal check.

The victims were James Darrell Rasnick, 21; Troy J. Phillips, 25; Uris Artrip, 42-year-old father of four children; Arnold Vicars, 35, who leaves two children; and Harold Parks, 23, and Oakley Creger, 39, each the father of one child.

Two other men suffered bruises and cuts.

The mishap—the worst from the fatality standpoint in the 46 years since the company began operations here—was described as a coal bump.

Mine officials said there was no explosion and no "real cave-in." They explained that the large mass of coal apparently was forced from the sides of the room in which the men were working by tremendous combined pressure from the hard top and bottom bounding the coal seam.

Warning Sent April 13

The United Mine Workers Union said that it sent a warning April 13 to the Clinchfield Coal Corp. about safety conditions at its Dante, Va., mine where six men were killed in a disaster Thursday night.

A union spokesman told reporters Federal mine safety inspectors visited the mine from February 26 to March 3 and reported that the management had failed to correct 31 out of 73 safety violations found in a prior inspection.

Alcoholic Clinic

The decision of the District Commissioners to set up the city's alcoholic clinic as a part of the Health Department, in spite of a contrary recommendation from a citizens advisory committee, gets our applause. The splinter policy in government always invites confusion and wasted effort. There is no more reason to relieve the alcoholic clinic of Health Department supervision than there would be to lift the Bureau of Mental Hygiene or the Cancer Control Bureau out of the department. What the city needs, and what is provided under the Auchincloss home-rule bill, is more rather than less central control over municipal services. The citizens committee may well be retained as an advisory group watching over the clinic, as Commissioner Mason suggests. But to have divorced it from the other units of our public health system would have been a move in precisely the wrong direction.

Home-Rule Safeguard

It is amazing to read that opposition to the District home-rule bill has developed in the House because of the method it prescribes for the handling of District legislation in Congress. In our opinion, this aspect of the bill is one of its most commendable features—one that should appeal especially to overworked Congressmen eager to be relieved of the burden of acting as city councilmen. We cannot help thinking that if any substantial complaint is being made against this part of the bill it springs from misunderstanding. And, with a vote to be taken next week under a rule properly limiting debate, it is of great importance that any such misunderstanding be cleared away.

At present 52 members of the House and Senate are serving on four committees that handle District bills and appropriations. The large amount of time they give to local affairs must be subtracted, of course, from the time available to them for the study of national and international legislation and advancement of the interests of their constituents. Under the home-rule bill all District legislation would go to one joint standing committee composed of nine Representatives and seven Senators. Even these members would be freed from the task of working out details of legislation for the Capital. For the most part this burden would fall upon the proposed District council.

Apparently some complaint stems from the fact that the council could pass, in addition to ordinary municipal ordinances, legislation for the District (comparable to that enacted by State legislatures) which would go into effect upon approval by Congress and the President through a joint resolution. Such a resolution, it is true, would be subject to only limited debate and could not be amended. But this is one of the virtues of the plan from the congressional viewpoint. It would keep the burden of lawmaking for the District off the floors of the Senate and House. If there should be any substantial dissatisfaction with a local bill, it could be rejected or sent back to the council for improvement. The burden of shaping the details of local measures would still rest with the council and the responsibility of giving or withholding assent with the Congress. To our way of thinking that arrangement has an enormous advantage over the present wasteful procedure.

If the joint committee should not act on a District council bill within 15 days, a motion would be in order in either house to discharge it from further consideration of the bill. In other words, District legislation approved by the council could not be bottled up indefinitely in the joint committee. Precedent for this arrangement may be found in the Executive Reorganization Act. If positive congressional action on such measures is to be required, we think that a safeguard of this sort is imperative to smooth functioning of the proposed new government. No local regime could safely assume the responsibility of governing a city of 860,000 inhabitants if a body as busy as our Congress could indefinitely hold up action on its proposed legislation.

Of course, this guarantee of prompt "yes" or "no" votes on local legislation would not prejudice the right of any Congressman to introduce bills affecting the District. Congress would have no less authority over the Capital than it has now. The great achievement of the home-rule bill is that, while maintaining this power to assert the national will in all matters concerning the District, it would restore local affairs in which Congress has little interest to a well-organized local government chosen by the people.

Plea From Jerusalem

It is painful to all friends of Britain to see the British government hesitating between the United Natjons and the Arab Legion under King Abdullah. On May 15 the British quit the mandate over Palestine. The very next day they were back in Palestine leading the Arab Legion in the attempt to take over Jerusalem. Hairs have been split over their connection with the Arab Legion. It is said that Brig. J. B. Glubb (whom King Abdullah has made a pasha) is to all intents and purposes a Trans-Jordanian. But the casuistry is unconvincing. The British have "seconded" Brigadier Glubb to Abdullah, they have "seconded" another 30 or 40 British officers to Abdullah, they are financing and arming and advising Abdullah, and in London they have given him and his design their blessing. It is known that Abdullah cannot stir a foot without Brigadier Glubb's or British support. The British must take some responsibility for whatever excesses Abdullah is committing in Jerusalem, with or without Jewish provocation.

The British people, having quit the mandate, think the problem is now a United Nations responsibility. But the United Nations is not a thing in itself; it is America and Britain and Russia and every member nation. If the United Nations is slighted, it is because the member nations have been remiss. If the United Nations fails, it will be because the member nations will have failed. The question must be asked: Is Britain doing its duty to the United Nations? She has been throwing a monkey wrench into every approach to a solution on the grounds that the irreconcilable Jews and Arabs won't and can't agree. But it was because the Jews and the Arabs won't and can't agree that the British turned over the issue to the United Nations.

It is because Jews and Arabs won't and can't agree that a solution has to be imposed, even in Jerusalem, about the international status of which nobody is in disagreement. And in Jerusalem the greatest danger lies. The U. N. Truce Commission in Jerusalem, reporting the failure of its efforts, insists that force is required, because mediation has proved unsuccessful. Yet Britain at Lake Success clings to mediation, and at the same time is upholding the British-Arab barrier that is responsible for the lack of success of mediation. Such an obstacle set up by one of the members will, if maintained, condemn the United Nations to the same bankruptcy that overcame the League of Nations.

We are sure the British people on reflection want to see the United Nations survive. We are equally sure that by comparison they are uninterested in the Arab League or the Arab Legion. It would be good for them to see the situation as it is now coming into the open for all America to watch. Britain's Brigadier Clayton sits with the Arab League, whose chief member, Egypt (who sat through the recent war and simply made money out of it), has just thumbed its nose at the United Nations. Britain's Brigadier Glubb runs Abdullah and his invading Arab Legion. And they are both developing a policy which has no relation to present actualities, let alone to world peace, and which is playing into Soviet hands.

The enormity of the proceedings of Britain's Middle Eastern duo is compounded by the acquiescence of the stubborn Foreign Secretary Bevin. Mr. Bevin seems to think he is a Palmerston in an age and in a period in British history which admits of no more Palmerstons. He has gone imperialist in a big way, having contracted a treaty mania with the Arabs, without regard to Britain's experience of Arab noncooperation, and without regard to world opinion. At Scarborough he got a big hand for espousing the Marshall Plan as the only alternative of "another loan from America." It is fantastic that Mr. Bevin should be allowed to let Britain appear to the world as more interested in behind-the-scenes membership of the Arab League than in friendship with America or in behaving as a pillar of the United Nations.

Secret Intelligence

The Brown Subcommittee of the House Executive Expenditures Committee exhibited good sense in postponing its probe into the operations of American intelligence preceding the Bogota revolt. If the investigation is to proceed at all, it ought to be shorn of all publicity and go on in camera. The really critical phase of intelligence is evaluation—which is to make a sort of editorial out of scattered reports. In retrospect, it would seem, there was plenty of information available, even in press dispatches, to cause genuine concern over the situation in Bogota. Plainly, someone whose job it was to evaluate such information did not appreciate its significance. The best information in the world is, of course, valueless unless it is presented in the proper context to the persons who need it.

Another lesson from Bogota is that the Central Intelligence Agency ought to be divorced completely from the State Department except for interchange of information. We doubt the advisability of operatives going into a country in the guise of representatives of the State Department. By the same token Ambassadors ought not to be in the intelligence chain. While they ought to be kept informed of intelligence reports sent back to Washington, they should not be in a position to prevent transmission of such reports. And of course the Central Intelligence Agency should not be forced to use State Department codes.

Finally, there ought to be even more recognition given the truism that the great part of intelligence is not secret. It is, rather, the open information that a host of agents, attaches and the like relay, and one function of CIA should be to see that all sources of this open information are covered by one or other of the intelligence agencies. In this respect its job should be to encourage rather than to grab intelligence operations. To be sure, the Central Intelligence Agency has an important function in directing and carrying on secret intelligence operations, but it has an even more important function in correlating and disseminating intelligence from other governmental agencies.

As the Central Intelligence Agency is about to receive, through the Saltonstall bill, the perquisites its status demands, it ought to be more than ever on its guard against becoming the victim of its own glamorized cloak-and-dagger inclinations. The Nation has a deep interest in knowing that the intelligence function is being fulfilled adequately rather than in how it is fulfilled, for in a cold war intelligence is its first line of defense.

Rights Of Others

In the course of his able and earnest defense of the Communist registration bill which he coauthored, Representative Richard Nixon made one of those interesting Freudian slips that so nakedly reveal the inner workings of the mind. "All of the members of the House," he said,

> "will realize that there was considerable pressure upon the committee to bring to the floor of the House an unreasonable measure, a measure which would go so far as to without doubt infringe upon the rights of others than those against whom it should be directed, and that such a measure could have passed this House without any question due to the fact that this happens to be an election year and that communism happens to be an issue."

What Mr. Nixon, unconsciously of course, was saying in the italicized clause was that the measure would, indeed, infringe upon the rights of those against whom it was directed. The justification for this is that those against whom it is directed espouse a cause that is odious to nearly all Americans. This is always the justification offered for infringing upon the rights of a minority. Mr. Justice Holmes once said what ought to be, at least for Americans, the final word on the subject: "If there is any principle of the Constitution that more imperatively calls for attachment than any other, it is the principle of free thought — not free thought for those who agree with us but freedom for the thought that we hate."

There is a utilitarian as well as a moral consideration to support this principle. When we deny rights to those we loathe, we imperil the rights of those we love. The rights granted to Americans under the Constitution are not gratuities to be enjoyed alone by those who conform to the prevailing opinion of the times. They are the tools which enable the American society to function; they are the source of its progress and its strength. And when they are denied to any member of that society, they are denied to the society as a whole. Mr. Nixon may think it of small moment to infringe upon the rights of Communists. But unhappily he cannot infringe upon their rights without infringing upon the rights of all.

The Mundt-Nixon bill would empower the Attorney General to determine which Americans shall have their rights preserved and which, because he deems them Communists or affiliated with Communists, shall have their rights infringed. It was but recently that the Supreme Court had occasion to observe in language strikingly similar to Justice Holmes' that "if there is any fixed star in our constitutional constellation, it is that no official, high or petty, can prescribe what shall be orthodox in politics, nationalism, religion, or other matters of opinion, or force citizens to confess, by word or act, their faith therein." This is a prohibition which would apply with equal force, we should think, to the Legislature.

No doubt Mr. Nixon was quite right in remarking that "an unreasonable measure . . . could have passed this House without any question due to the fact this happens to be an election year and that communism happens to be an issue." The overwhelming vote in favor of the bill, including the names of many men whose long record of attachment to civil rights belies any sympathy with this repressive measure, makes it clear that this is precisely what happened. We hope that the Senate will wait to pass upon this bill until after the passions and pressures of an electoral campaign have been spent. Its impact upon human freedom is far too grave for hysterical decision.

BUT I WAS YOUNG

I said, "I'll lay me down and die."
The dead leaves darkened all the land,
The sorry clouds assailed the sky. .

I said, when winter chilled the bone,
When dreary dawns were sad to see,
"My heart's as heavy as a stone,
My love is like a winter tree."

I said, "With death I'll lay me down."
But spring came back with bloom and bird,
And I went whistling into town . . .
A pretty maid my whistling heard.

I said, when sorrow laid me low,
"My love is like an ended song."
But I was young. I lived to know
That spring returns, and I was wrong.

"Greek Justice"

Your May 12 editorial, "Greek Justice" was exemplary of your usual clear thinking and excellent reasoning.

Authorities who are in first-hand contact with the situation in Greece have indicated that all executions since May are solely of criminals who have committed murder—in the worst sense of that word—of the Greek civilian population. Women and children busy with tasks of baking bread or working in fields have been butchered like so many cattle. Defenseless old men and women likewise have been just as heartlessly murdered.

Those who have visited Greece and are familiar with the situation there point out that murders committed on such a mass basis since as far back as 1943 could not be left unpunished without disrupting the morale of the entire citizenry. No people can accomplish the difficult uphill task of returning to an independent normal way of living through full production if they are beset not only by poverty, hunger, illness and inadequate shelter, but also by the frightening and ever-present possibility of mass murder of the civilian population.

Furthermore, it has been pointed out that the executions were carried out only after full legal investigation into the matter. In fact, criticism has been made of the delay in effecting justice—a delay which occurred only because the democratic Greek process insisted upon carrying out the full and formal judicial process, despite the fact that the courts are so heavily overburdened since the days of the occupation.

According to the agreement at Varkiza, those who were found to have given moral support in the perpetration of crime were relieved from any prosecution and allowed to go free. Those, however, who actually committed murders, from one to 100 or more each, would be prosecuted according to the Greek law and punished for such crimes in the court of justice by court martial. Therefore, only those who were convicted of the latter category, and none of the former, were executed in recent days.

Some Leftist writers would have us believe that all those executed recently were those who believed in different political faith than the adherents to the Greek government, or those that had participated in the 1944 revolution against the Greek government. Even if the Greek government desired to set free those who were convicted of murder, it could not prevent the execution without a special law by the Greek Parliament. The question is: Would the Greek Parliament pass such a law and prevent such execution in view of the present status of the Communist guerilla activities in Greece? Hardly.

Reflection On Veterans

I fully realize that some of the men who served in the armed forces in the recent war left a lot to be desired but I do not feel that the veteran as such should be penalized and held up to scorn for the acts of some of his brethren. To be specific I am referring to your edition of May 14 in which you captioned an article, "Ex-GI Shoots Wife and Child."

Somewhere in the neighborhood of 12 million men served in the armed forces, and one naturally is going to find some black sheep in that many men, but my point is that I see no reason why their bad points should be emphasized. Please do not misunderstand me, I am not condoning what this man has done, as it was a most horrible thing but would it not be better to deemphasize the fact that these men who go astray were former servicemen rather than the fact that they are.

It has always appeared rather strange to me that the thousands of draft-dodgers roaming this country have been sheltered, whereas the men who fought for their country are now considered "forgotten men". C. D. ODELL.

Aid To Education

Why do we decry the existence of the Long dynasty and the Bilbos and the Kissin' Jims of the South, and then fight down H. R. 2953, which aims to provide equal educational opportunity for the benighted regions which elect such individuals?

Why does Congress stage bitter fights all along the line for nonsegregation and fair-labor-practice and antilynch and antipoll tax laws for the Southern Negro, and at the same time stubbornly oppose H. R. 2953, Federal aid to basic education, which would give the Negro the equal educational opportunity that is the steppingstone and open-sesame to all the other civil rights?

What kind of Americans are favoring the Federal aid to education bill? The National Education Association, the American Association of University Women, the Independent League of Women Voters, the Parent-Teachers Association and their admirable kind.

Who are opposing Federal aid to basic education? Those who wish to arm ignorance with votes, and later with weapons, for their own sinister purposes; and those who are being directly or indirectly used or swayed by the propaganda and pressure of the sinister ring.

Cat Catastrophes

The heading, "One Life Saved, Still Nine To Go," which appeared over an article in The Washington Post of May 16, indicates a certain lack of understanding of the nature and use of the nine lives allotted to cats. To be sure, the kitten was alive when removed from the space behind Mrs. Livingston's wall. But this does not mean that a life was saved.

Does your reporter believe that a cat will delay even for one moment exercising its option for an extra life? Of course not. What we observe in nature is the cat emerging, more or less unscathed, from a succession of predicaments that would do in lesser animals. We do not detect a click when the new life is being manifest.

The pitiable meows heard by Mrs. Livingston upon returning after her long absence was the vigorous new life—not the old. It is analogous to the gears in a car, a cat has nine, a car has three. How else, may I ask, can we explain the fact that cats are always alive when rescued from trees, power lines, sewers and walls?

It must be concluded, therefore, that the kitten exhausted one of its lives during its stay behind the wall, and that the heading should properly read, "One life exhausted, eight more to go." If it were otherwise, I am afraid that the world would soon be overrun with cats. This, of course, would be catastrophic.

State Grab In Tidelands Oil

Methinks Mr. Fred W. Howser, Attorney General of California, "protests too much" in his letter published in your columns May 15 castigating Mr. Drew Pearson for his conclusion that an "oil lobby" is at the bottom of the current efforts to secure for the States the rights to the land underlying the boundary territorial waters of the United States.

Mr. Pearson is not alone among the politically informed that have the very strong opinion and belief that oil interests have a very strong say in a number of our State governments including Mr. Howser's California. It could be that such influence is being used indirectly in behalf of this national legislation. Teapot Dome and the Ickes-Pauley controversy may have taught the oil interests the dangers of operating directly at the national level.

The writer, a former resident of California, witnessed with consternation the rape of the immense southern California gas and oil reservoir in the 20s and 30s, a rape which is currently costing the city of Los Angeles in the neighborhood of 100 million dollars to pipe natural gas from Texas.

Dire necessity has forced some rational regulation of late in this area but it comes many years too late. The overdrilling and wastage of the gas pressure in these fields has probably cost our economy many millions of barrels of unrecoverable oil and billions of dollars.

Specifically the unrestricted exploitation of the oil, gas, and subsoil water resources of southern California by oil and real estate interests might well return much of this fair land to the desert from whence it came.

Mr. Howser and associates of self-interested States and private interests have certainly done an outstanding job of erecting "straw-men" and playing on the gullibility of the House of Representatives that votes this rich prize to them 257-29 and on the Attorney Generals of 44 States whom he alleges are supporting this bill because the California decision (U. S. Supreme Court) imperiled the title not only to the sea coast properties, but to all lands underlying the inland waters as well." The writer is no authority on this decision but the concensus of unbiased sources is that this opinion in no way affects the status quo of the past 170 years in regard to the inland waters.

Long and loud would be the wails of the States not surrounded with marginal oil lands should this bill pass and the Federal Government should say to them, "Now that you own unrestricted rights to the navigable rivers and lakes, go ahead and provide your own aids to navigation, dredging, flood control, power dams, policing and other facilities now supplied in large part if not wholly by the Federal Government.

Naturally, though short sightedly, the peoples and State governments of the few State having these marginal oil lands are very much interested in such an immense prize for their benefit. The peoples and legislators from other States supporting such a gift are just plainly and foolishly befuddled.

While the Joint Senate-House Judiciary Subcommittee was hearing the specious, rationalized arguments for this oil grab in one committee room of the Capitol, in still another room the Short Subcommittee of the House Armed Forces Committee was hearing unbiased experts describing the critical oil situation as regards our national defense and economy and strongly urging a rational, national oil policy of development and conservation to safeguard these United States in case of war.

The not distant future security of the United States might well lie in which of these two courses the Congress chooses; the almost inevitable rape of this potentially rich marginal sea in a very few years for the immediate profit of a few States and corporations operating therein if these lands are turned over to the States; or, alternately, the careful development and conservation of this reservoir as a long-term "ace in the hole" for our national defense and economy, to be played only in case of extreme emergencies which might well come in another war. Let us hope the Senate and our Executive can see the light apparently obscured to the House of Representatives.

Election Year Blackout

By Malvina Lindsay

Postponing Peril

SCENE—A preparedness rally.

Chairman—Fellow citizens: This meeting has been called to do something about the perils the Nation faces. We must mobilize at once to make America strong. Any suggestions?

Mr. Brash—Yes! We should tell Congress to step on the gas about housing, health, education, inflation—

Judge Pudd—Just a minute! Inflation's a very controversial word. This is a campaign year.

Chairman—I see Senator Tweedle is here. Have you any advice for us, Senator?

Senator Tweedle — Just one thing—we must be firm with Russia.

Mr. Dare—As representative of Atomic Age Citizens, Inc., let me say that we should also strengthen our own economy. Prices are still going up. Some things are getting in short supply and will be shorter if we arm Europe. We should demand some allocations or controls—

Mr. Wadd—I object! I thought this was a nonpolitical meeting.

Chairman—Speakers will please avoid the words "inflation" and "controls." I see Mr. Nesselrode Groove, civic leader, is here. Anything to say, Mr. Groove?

Mr. Groove — Just this. We must avoid hasty action. This is a campaign year. I propose we have an executive committee to consult privately and draw up a sane and sound program on which we can act after Novem— I mean late—quite late in the fall.

MRS. MIXMASTER—As president of the Association for Advancement, I request that a woman be on that committee.

Judge Pudd—But where is one qualified?

Senator Tweedle—Let me speak to that. Now, much as I revere and hallow womanhood, I doubt if a woman is temperamentally suited to sit on an executive committee.

Mrs. Feddup—May I inquire how many men are sitting on committees in Congress or anywhere else who are temperamentally suited to do so?

Mr. Groove—Wait! This is leading into controversy—in a campaign year. I suggest that nothing be done about the executive committee until after—er—that is, around Thanksgiving—no, better make it January.

Mrs. McAddle—But will the Russians wait until after the Republicans come in?

Chairman—Please keep to the subject.

MR. DARE—We must wake up! This is the atomic age. Events are moving faster than our minds. We must face the imminence of atomic war.

Mr. Vanderpuffer — Now, now, don't let's get excited. As president of the Status Quo Protective League, I have it from an unimpeachable source close to the military that the next war will be fought largely in the good old-fashioned—I mean in the established manner.

Mr. Brash—That's what Japan thought.

Mr. Wadd—If this country expects to be safe, it needs to get some practical hard-headed businessmen in charge of those atoms and throw out the theorists.

Judge Pudd—This whole atom question is very controversial. Remember election is only about five months off.

Mrs. Feddup—I move we ask Congress to put all atoms into cold storage until after election.

Chairman—The remark is out of order. Let's get back to the question of making America strong..

Mrs. McAddle—I thought we were going to wait until after election.

Chairman (pounding his gavel) —Order please!

MRS. MARCH—Mr. Chairman: If we're going to strengthen our own economy, we'll have to do something about civil rights.

Chorus—Sh! Sh! Sh!

Judge Pudd—I rise to a point of order.

Mr. Groove—I move we adjourn.

Chairman (pounding furiously) —Order, please!

Mr. Dare—What about economic peace—and our future trade. We should do something about trade agreements—

Mr. Wadd—I object! This is a citizens' meeting. Besides, the lady is confused.

Mr. Groove—We should have no public discussion of tariff—at this time. Our executive committee should deal with that after—that is, later.

Mr. Dare—There's something else. How can this country be strong with so many illiterates, so much of its youth unfit physically, so many people suffering, dying for lack of medical care—

Mr. Wadd—Wait! We can't get mixed up with those socialistic schemes in a campaign year. Besides, they cost money.

Mrs. Feddup—I move we ask people to postpone their suffering and dying until after November 3.

Chairman—The remark is out of order.

Judge Pudd—Now, now, we've got to be a little patient. The little lady is confused. We'll get around to lots of things—in 1949.

Mr. Brash—We're getting nowhere now. I move we adjourn until November 3.

Chairman—We can't adjourn without doing something to make America strong.

Mrs. Montclair St. Vitus—I have it! A victory garden project!

Mr. Vanderpuffer—We can have everybody here take a loyalty test.

Senator Tweedle—And pass a resolution demanding firmness with Russia.

Mr. Wadd—And one to lower taxes.

Chorus—Fine!

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Weapons Against Communism

THE CURRENT alarm over communism in the United States and in the world has meant a greatly increased burden for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the agency responsible under law for internal security. President Truman's loyalty order alone meant a new load of sizable proportions.

Childs

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover requested an appropriation of $50,106,000 for the Government year beginning July 1. The Bureau of the Budget reviewed the request and cut it to $43,900,000.

There seems to have been little or no disposition in Senate or House to restore this cut, even though Hoover in his testimony made clear what it would mean. After July 1, 1800 positions will be abolished, this will mean a reduction in the number of FBI agents.

Hoover has said privately that it may be necessary to close down FBI offices in the Territories. The seriousness of this does not need emphazing in view of the vulnerability of Hawaii and Alaska and of the explosive potentialities in Puerto Rico, with its dire poverty and fearful overcrowding. In the period immediately preceding Pearl Harbor, the FBI in Honolulu developed vital information about Jap intentions that the Army and Navy ignored.

BOTH House and Senate have approved the FBI appropriation as cut by the Bureau of the Budget. Yet at the same time, by overwhelming majority, the House passed a law intended to bring communism into the open and thereby make it harmless. This is a beautiful example of our tendency to rely on the magic of law.

Senator Robert A. Taft says the Mundt bill must be given serious study before the Senate can consider action. It is hoped the study will include a thorough survey of present security measures, with a view to determining whether they can be more effectively employed within the framework of the Constitution and present law.

Representative Chet Holifield put in a bill calling on the Attorney General to submit a detailed report on the efforts being carried out under present laws, with conclusions on whether these laws should be strengthened or new laws adopted. The Holifield measure has the same preamble as the Mundt bill, setting out a "clear and present danger," but significantly it includes the danger from fascism as well as communism.

The political implications of all this are clear in an election year. It took real courage for genuine liberals of the type of Holifield, Representative John Carroll of Colorado and Representative Jacob Javits of New York to go against the Mundt bill. These men, who have no Communist taint whatsoever, realized that they would have to stand up and be counted alongside the demagogic Vito Marcantonio, who carefully treads the Communist Party line.

THERE are available weapons against communism that have been only partly employed or employed crudely and in such a way as to do more harm than good. One is publicity—a two-edged sword that can be effective in trained and skillful hands.

The House Un-American Activities Committee has frequently misused this weapon, sometimes doing great injustice. But if some of the carefully collected and documented information in the FBI files could be released, it might show the public the nature of the conspiracy, and those who might otherwise be attracted to communism through a sense of injustice or frustration would be warned away.

For example, the FBI has prepared under Hoover's personal supervision a "black book" of American communism. It gives the names, background, activities, and so on, of the 200 leading Communists and Communist agents in this country.

Only a few persons outside the FBI, including the President and a half dozen high Army and Navy officers, have access to the black book. Perhaps it could be the basis for a public expose of the conspiracy. This would have to be done, of course, with the utmost caution.

We in this country, with its great forward move in living standards, in well-being, in individualism, should understand above all other peoples that there can be no absolute security by law. A healthy, progressive society provides increasing rewards and satisfactions for an ever greater number of people. These are not material rewards alone. They include, above all, a sense of participating in and belonging to the society. With effective precautions for security, communism will not flourish in that kind of free society. The attempt to legislate communism out of existence may end the freedoms at the root of our way of life.

NLRB Won't Conduct Vote On Union Shop Where Banned

By The Associated Press

The National Labor Relations Board decided by a 3-to-2 vote yesterday that it will not hold elections to determine whether employes want a union shop in any State which has a law prohibiting the union shop.

The Labor Department said 10 States have laws which prohibit the union shop: Arkansas, Georgia, Iowa, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Labor atorneys familiar with the State laws said, however, that Florida and Arizona, too, have State laws prohibiting the union shop or similar "union security" systems.

The decision was based on the Taft-Hartley Act. That law permits the union shop if two requirements are met: (1), a majority of the employes signify in an election conducted by the NLRB that they want it, and (2) State laws do not prohibit it.

A union shop is a working arrangement under which the employer can hire anybody he wants to, but the employe must join the union within a specified time. The Taft-Hartley Act, however, outlaws the closed shop, which is a system that permits an employer to hire only persons who already are union members.

Soon after the board's decision was announced, an NLRB official said he understood 19 States were affected, and named them. Reporters checked further at the Labor Department, however, and were told there are only 10 States which forbid the union shop system.

North Dakota, has arranged to hold referendum elections next November on prohibiting the system. Meanwhile it appeared that the NLRB would continue to conduct union shop elections in those States, upon request, until the issue is settled.

Some States have partial restrictions on the union shop, and the NLRB will observe these restrictions in holding elections.

For example, New Hampshire, Colorado and Wisconsin laws governing open shop elections require a greater percentage of favorable employe votes for adoption than does the Federal law, which requires only a majority. The NLRB is expected to follow the State standards in determining the result of elections there.

The board's ruling was regarded as an important intrepretation of the law which went into effect last year over President Truman's veto. It means that where there is a conflict between State laws and the permissive union shop section of the Taft-Hartley Act, NLRB will recognize the State law and not hold the elections.

One section of the Taft-Hartley law says:

"Nothing in this act shall be construed as authorizing the execution or application of agreements requiring membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment in any State or Territory in which such execution or application is prohibited by State or territorial law."

Chairman Dissents

The board said the Taft-Hartley law "in effect removes all Federal restrictions upon existing and future State legislation prohibiting compulsory unionism . . . even where such legislation may affect employes engaged in interstate commerce."

The opinion of board members James J. Reynolds, jr., Abe Murdock and J. Copeland Gray on the issue prevailed. Chairman Paul M. Herzog and John M. Houston dissented.

The issue arose on the application of an AFL clerks union for a union shop election in stores of the Giant Food Shopping Center, Inc., in Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Ross Madden, regional NLRB director, refused to order the election on the ground it would conflict with the Virginia law. A majority of the board upheld his position, although they said a union shop election could be held for the employes of the District of Columbia stores.

Lewis Ignores Operator Bid For More Talks

John L. Lewis yesterday ignored the soft coal operators' invitation to resume negotiations on a new contract, and the disputing parties drifted further apart.

The talks collapsed Wednesday night at their very outset. Subsequently the operators sent Lewis a letter urging renewal of the negotiations.

Many of the mine owners went home yesterday, saying they feared there would be no more talks until the expiration date of the present contract draws closer. That date is June 30.

Sends Committee Home

The United Mine Workers chief met with his executive board, but sent his 200-man policy committee home. The union said Lewis was only going over routine matters with the board and would have nothing to say—about the operators' new plea to resume conferences—or anything else.

The union, however, said that the operators' letter was a "maneuver" in the controversy over seating of President Joseph Moody of the Southern Coal Producers Association in the wage conference.

Lewis would not agree to admitting Moody as the head of the SCPA. The conference broke up on that issue.

Has Filed Complaint

Moody has filed an unfair labor practice complaint against Lewis for keeping him out of the bargaining talks. He says he has authority to bargain for the Southern operators who produce 158 million tons of bituminous coal annually and employ 125,000 miners.

Moody also has asked General Counsel Robert N. Denham of the National Labor Relations Board to seek a court injunction, forcing Lewis to bargain with him as the repreesntative of the Southern operators.

Work Starts at Rath Under Eyes of Guard

Waterloo, Iowa, May 21 (AP).—While National Guardsmen stood by limited production was resumed today at the Rath packing plant which had shut down after a Wednesday night riot in which a picket was killed.

Nonstriking workers returned to their jobs without incident. Hogs were unloaded into killing pens while jeeps and armored cars patrolled the plant area.

Trade Board Indorses Sligo Ave. Zoning Plan

Indorsement of the master zoning plan for Sligo ave., Silver Spring, was anounced Thursday by the board of directors of the Silver Spring Board of Trade. The plan would change property on Sligo ave. from residential to commercial.

Marshall Scrimgeour, chairman of the civic affairs committee, will present the group's approval at a public hearing May 27 at 4:50 p. m. at the Liquor Dispensary Building, Silver Spring.

No Decision Reached on Pay Increase for U. S. Employes

No decision was reached yesterday on the Federal pay raise bills at a joint meeting of the pay raise subcommittees of the Senate and House Civil Service Committees. Another session is to be held next week.

Chairman Rees of the House committee said yesterday's session was devoted to a general discussion of the problem. However, he did say that he was confident that the Congress would act on the pay bills before it adjourns.

Earlier, House-Senate conferees reached an agreement on the Federal worker security bill. The conferees knocked out the sweeping provision approved by the House which would give agency heads the right to fire any employe summarily on a security charge.

It was explained that a bill was now before the Senate which would give limited summary suspension powers to Army, Navy, Air Force, State, Atomic Energy, Munitions Board, Coast Guard, National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, and National Security Resources Board officials.

ity rights. Such terms, he added, would mean "the destruction of our union."

The 9 cent wage boost and other terms of the contract are retroactive to March 16, the date of the strike. The AFL and independent unions accepted the 9 cents last January.

The strike never caused any severe meat shortages anywhere. The packers stepped up production sharply in their unstruck plants and started a back-to-work movement among the strikers. The packers claimed success for this back-to-work move, but the union insisted its members did not take part.

However, the Illinois Agricultural Association estimated that livestock raisers lost 20 million dollars weekly during the strike because of unstable prices.

Thrusts At Labor Act

Helstein, in announcing the end of the strike, took a sharp thrust at the Taft-Hartley Act, saying:

"We trust that the public will understand that this strike, ushered in the Taft-Harley era, with all of the strikebreaking and unionbreaking devices that have been customary with corporate monopolies for decades prior to the enactment of the Wagner Act."

The National Guard was called out in Minnesota and Iowa when the violence broke out following the issuance of court orders against mass picketing.

A striker was killed in Chicago when run over by a truck and a picket was shot and killed in East St. Louis and another in Waterloo, Iowa.

Armour & Co. said in a statement, after the strike was called off:

"We are grateful that this long-drawn-out and wholly unnecessary strike has ended. It has been costly to employers, to livestock producers, to retail meat dealers and their customers, but most of all to packinghouse workers and their families. . . .

"With the calling off of the strike, packers should be able to restore within a week to 10 days the important services which they customarily render to livestock producers and meat consumers."

Swift Issues Statement

Swift & Co. issued this statement:

"We welcome our employes back to work and are happy that the ten-week strike has been ended. We shall resume normal operations just as soon as sufficient livestock can be obtained and the plants returned to production. The important thing is to get back to work."

A Cudahy spokesman said: "You can say that we intend to resume operations at normal rate as soon as possible."

Wilson said earlier that "in cases where the evidence is overwhelming and guilt is established, we consider it our duty not to reemploy persons who have committed unlawful or illegal acts in connection with the conduct of the strike. . . . Failure to follow this course would only invite and encourage lawlessness of an even more serious nature in the future."

The Wilson plants where the strike will continue are at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.; Albert Lea, Minn.; Kansas City, Kans.; Chicago, Faribault, Minn.; Omaha, and Los Angeles.

Blue Ridge Bus Drivers Quit For 16 Hours

A sudden 16-hour work stoppage tied up all operations of the Blue Ridge bus lines from midnight Thursday until yesterday afternoon.

The strike of some 175 drivers and maintenance men cut off bus service between Washington and Hagerstown, Frederick and Cumberland in Maryland, and between here and Uniontown and Harrisburg in Pennsylvania.

The work stoppage, which came in the form of a "continuous meeting" of Local 1335, Amalgamated Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America (AFL), was in protest against the discharge of a driver, according to William E. Giffin, president of the local.

Congressional Inquiry Hit by Head of Union

Chicago, May 21 (AP).—Ralph Helstein, head of the CIO Packinghouse Workers, said today a congressional inquiry into the current meat strike was "timed to have a harmful effect" on the walkout.

Helstein began his testimony before the Subcommittee of the House Committee on expenditures in executive departments by describing Representative Clare Hoffman (R., Mich.), the subcommittee chairman, as "notorious for his pronounced bias and prejudice against union and workers."

The union head challenged the authority of the committee to investigate the meat strike. It called the hearings a "ludicrous spectacle of an inquiry into labor problems conducted by a committee whose functions are supposed to relate to the expenditures of Federal executive agencies."

James Cooney, vice president of Wilson & Co., told the subcommittee that "the union is infested with Communist and fellow travelers. The Communists have been trying to get control of this union, if they haven't already done so."

Truman Plans New Plea on Social Security

President Truman decided yesterday to ask Congress again to broaden the benefits of the 11-year-old Social Security program.

Whether Congress will act, busy as it is with other matters, is highly uncertain. Mr. Truman's decision was announced at the White House by Senator Barkley of Kentucky, Senate Democratic leader.

Asked whether there is any chance for congressional action, Barkley replied: "The President hopes so."

The message is due in a few days. It will be the second special message in recent days on an important issue this political campaign year. Mr. Truman asked a week ago for a long-range farm program to benefit farmers and to use surpluses for feeding the poor.

Presumably, Mr. Truman will ask, as he has before, for extension of protection under Social Security for millions not now covered. Higher rates of benefits are also a likely request.

On February 16, the annual report of the Social Security Board offered recommendations Mr. Truman is expected to follow up. The board recommended making the self-employed, including farmers and small businessmen, domestic workers, farm hands and others eligible for old age pensions. It asked extension, too, to Federal workers, members of the armed forces and railroad workers not now covered by their own pension systems.

It also proposed a jump in the maximum retirement payment, from $85 to $120 a month. To offset this, the Social Security tax would apply to the first $4800 of annual earnings instead of the first $3000.

Meanwhile, Sumner H. Slichter, vice chairman of the Advisory Council on Social Security, addressed a letter to Chairman Millikin (R., Colo.) of the Senate Finance Committee, asking that the Senate hold up a House-approved appropriation bill which he said would establish "a new constituent unit of the Federal Security Agency coequal with the Social Security Administration."

He referred to the proposed unit comprising the United States Employment Service, transferred from the Labor Department, and the Bureau of Employment, now a part of SSA.

Slichter's letter pointed out that from its beginning, the Social Security system "has been administered as an integrated whole" and said the council "has been impressed by the close relationships between the several parts of the program and the desirability of preserving an integrated administration which is able effectively to take account of these close relationships."

Slichter expressed the council's view that the House action "goes beyond the matter of appropriations and introduces basic changes in the organization of the Social Security Administration which appear to be adverse to an effective integrated administration.

He asked that the matter be brought to the attention of the Senate Appropriations Committee and that legislation "which might change the structure of the Social Security Administration" be deferred until the reports of the council are in the hands of Millikin's committee.

Voters who do not recognize any differences in quality of education among States say:

In recent years States have assisted local schools, but opposition to Federal aid has been strong on the basis of "State's rights." Both the Taft bill and House measure specifically prohibit the use of Federal funds in order to wield any Federal control over curricula, personnel or instructional methods.

The Senate passed the Taft bill April 1, under which a minimum of $50 per child would be placed on the combined Federal and State assistance for education. It also provides a Federal subsidy of $5 per child for States above the $50 minimum spending rate.

Lippmann Heads Group to Probe Death of Polk

Walter Lippmann, columnist, yesterday was named chairman of a special committee of newsmen to investigate the murder of George Polk, CBS radio correspondent in Greece. The committee represents the Overseas Writers Club.

Representative George G. Sadowski, (D., Mich.), said meanwhile that he will ask for a congressional investigation of the slaying unless the State Department clears up the mystery within a "reasonable" time.

Polk's body was found in Salonika Bay last Sunday. His hands were bound and he had been shot through the head. He reportedly was en route to interview Greek guerilla leaders when he met death.

Lippmann's group was instructed to seek information from Secretary of State George C. Marshall, Greek Aid Administrator Dwight Griswold, and the United States Embassy in Athens. It then is to report whether "other measures are necessary to uncover the whole truth."

New York, May 22 (U.P.).—The American Newspaper Guild tonight demanded a full investigation of the the murder of George Polk, correspondent of the Columbia Broadcasting System in Greece, charging that the Greek government had shown "obvious reluctance" to get at the facts.

to keep the men at work they won't do anything."

Enochs, Loomis and Mackay said that in past disputes, "by strike threats and the exercise of political power," the unions have enforced settlements more favorable to themselves than the recommendations of the presidential boards.

"Continuance of this situation is intolerable," the management representatives said, adding that the brotherhoods ought to "assume the responsibilities imposed upon them by the law they helped to enact."

The unions originally had asked for a 30 per cent pay raise. They finally agreed to the 15½-cent hike, but held out for other rule changes. On that note, the negotiations broke up.

The Government took over the railroads May 10 and got the temporary injunction against the strike. After seizure, the three brotherhoods rescinded their strike calls.

One on the Aisle—

What the Stage Means by 'Great'

By Richard L. Coe

SHOW FOLK: Poor Helen Hayes is ailing, but she insists the show go on next Friday night at Olney . . . Her doctor told the beloved star that if she continued with her plans to go to London for her debut in Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie," he would forbid her to play her 11 performances at Olney in "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire" just before sailing . . . Helen toyed with the idea of buying out the Olney production, paying all expenses simply for a few weeks' rest before the trials of her first English appearance. She's worn out from over a year's run as the "Happy Birthday" lush . . . But she's knowing enough about Theater to realize that for the Olney to lose the eclat of a Hayes' engagement, which already is sold out for all performances, would reflect on the country playhouse and augur poorly for its most promising season . . . So she's determined to go through with it all; her offstage time will be spent in bed at the actors' home next door to the newly refurbished theater . . . A pack of stars wouldn't think twice about sacrificing a country theater for the assurance of a West End triumph, but Miss Hayes' habitual graciousness once more shines through . . . She was the first star this reporter ever interviewed, which fact, when she learned it, prompted her to give us a minor scoop . . . During the war she was kindliness personified in writing us once in a while of plays she had seen, a star turned reviewer for an Air Force mechanic . . . So it's not surprising she's not going back on her word to Olney, even though her doctor advises against it . . . She says she'll be here and in London and so she will.

MARGARET O'BRIEN met the press briefly the other morning and in the course of it revealed she'd told President Truman she certainly would not like to be President. . . . With "Harvey" in town one is likely to say all sorts of odd things, so I must remark I for one am certainly glad I'm not Margaret O'Brien . . . The 11-year-old has just dashed through Europe, where the Pope was mildly astonished to find that she was an actress and where she chatted with such international bigwigs as Prime Minister Atlee . . . She's far prettier than she photographs, but to me the poor kid looked dazed and timid, as what 11-year-old wouldn't . . . It's tough enough for a youngster to be acting—which I'm all for, however, but the heady trials of meeting all sorts of people would wear down an adult, let alone a child.

MAE WEST is back from London, where, during her run in "Diamond Lil," she learned to play the piano . . . Wonder if this will do her regular pianist out of a job . . . After her evening performances, Mae's in the habit of being played to till 3 or 4 in the morning, which doesn't exactly endear her to hotel managers . . . Last time she was here Mae confided that what she's wanted all her life was to be a star on the West End . . . Now she's done it and plans a new Broadway play for the fall.

REHOBOTH BEACH vacationers will be glad to hear that things are booming for this summer's new Henlopen Playhouse . . . Washington representative in the company will be Charlie Steinmetz . . . Neil Hamilton and John Carradine are among the stars who'll pay a call, according to Manager Norma MacHardy who reports that Washingtonians who make Rehoboth their summer home may make season reservations by writing her, care of the Henlopen Playhouse.

NEIL HAMILTON and his daughter, Patricia, will be joining the parent-offspring combination acting duos this summer, though they'll not be playing together for Rehoboth's "Blithe Spirit." . . . Neil's daughter, soon to graduate from Marymount, will be acting with him on Long Island in "Parlor Story." . . . Last local father-daughter combination was Eric Mattson and his daughter, Mary Ann, in "Carousel," but the most famous of this genre, of course, was Otis Skinner and his daughter Cornelia . . . Cornelia, by the way, is out in Seattle with "Lady Windermere's Fan," closing a phenomenally successful tour that opened here last September . . . Next fall Cornelia will return to her monologues.

STEVE COCHRANE, former manager of the National, writes from the Los Angeles County Hospital that he's slowly recovering from the traffic accident which almost took his life, and blesses Actors Fund of America for its aid to him . . . Under Dan Frohman's leadership the Actors Fund used to have yearly benefits outside New York, but this practice seems to have been discontinued. . . . At all events, Steve sends his best to his Washington pals—including you, Walter Haight.

FRANK FAY was presented with a double brandy the other night at Olmsted's, half for him, half for the invisible "Harvey." . . . But Frank's been on the wagon 12 years and turned down the gift with thanks . . . Margaret Truman, with two of her girl friends, paying her way into the Little for "Die Fledermaus." . . . Yvonne Verlaine, whom many will recall as the "dancing violinist" of the Keith circuit, has developed a marionette show and is now Marjory Hendricks' right-hand gal at Normandy Farms and the Watergate Inn. . . . The Washington Theater Alliance is giving a picnic this afternoon at 5 at Grove 24, Rock Creek Park, to which all members and friends are invited. . . . E. M. Loew's Drive-In on the Richmond hgwy. begins Saturday midnight shows tonight. . . . Only six more days till the pool opens for the Summer out at Glen Echo. . . . Dance Theater Studios is giving a special performance Sunday afternoon at 4 for children of Hillcrest, the Washington City Orphan Asylum, with dancers from Erika Thimey's group and youngsters from Hillcrest, Jane Bennett, Sara Maloney, Ellen Kraus, Gene Gonzales, Nina Sharnoff and Tamara Bernstein. . . . Today's opening: "Old Los Angeles," William Elliott and the gold rush days, at the Metropolitan.

RETURN DUEL: Jennifer Jones, a friend, and Gregory Peck, in the top roles of "Duel in the Sun," Technicolor melodrama which has returned for a run at the Palace. Joseph Cotton, Walter Huston and Lillian Gish are among the epic's other players

San Francisco Violist Gives Concert at Congress Library

By Paul Hume

Ferenc Molnar, violist from San Francisco, played a concert for the Coolidge Foundation last night in the Coolidge Auditorium of the Library of Congress.

He was joined by Louis Fuerstner in the important role of pianist throughout the greater part of the program. Familiar items to lovers of the viola and piano repertoire made up the evening's music. Brahms' F Minor sonata, Ernest Bloch's Suite for viola and piano (or orchestra); Max Reger's sonata for unaccompanied viola; some Fairy Tales of Schumann, and Paul Hindesmith's early Opus 11, No. 4.

The manuscript of the Bloch Suite was on display at the Auditorium. It is a great, and rather introspective work. To this reviewer it looms large above the other works on the program by reason of the high degree of originality which fills every measure.

The affinity between the opening Brahms and the closing Hindemith, a fact which has long been apparent, was made more plain by their presence on a single program Family ties between Reger's easy manipulation of themes and forms and Hindemith's similar but far greater gifts were also clearly evident during the Reger work for viola unaccompanied.

Molnar plays with a musician's sense of rhythmic responsiveness, a faculty of the essence to a chamber musician. His tone is of good size and quality, with a somewhat brighter texture than that of many violists. This was a decided help in view of the somber color of most of the contents of his program. Fuerstner provided outstanding partnership at the piano, with precisely the right degree of command at all times.

Youth, 19, Gets 12 Years in 1946 Death of Man

A 19-year-old youth was sentenced to 12 years in prison yesterday by the Alexandria Corporation Court for killing a man after an argument in January, 1946.

Sentenced, after entering a plea of guilty, was Howard Tabor, formerly of 421 Prince st., Alexandria. Tabor admitted the fatal shooting of William Belk following an argument over Belk's sister.

Tabor escaped after the shooting, but was indicted by a grand jury. He was arrested in Pasadena, Calif., two months ago.

Henry Evans, 32, 421 N. Pitt st., Alexandria, pleaded guilty to the charge of being Tabor's accomplice and was given a three-year sentence. Police said he had given Tabor the gun.

Fairfax Police Seek Details of Rape of Girl, 11

Fairfax County police yesterday tried to pin down a story involving the rape or attempted rape of an 11-year-old girl by a man who was said to be wearing a mask and carrying a red-handled pistol.

The girl, who lives in Falls Church, told police she was walking home from a friend's house Wednesday about 9 p. m. when the strangely garbed man attacked her. She was nearly home, she told police, when the man grabbed her, tied her hands, threw a bag over her head, and tried to rape her.

Police said the girl was hysterical and that they have not yet been able to find substantial proof that the attack occurred. The child's family doctor told police he could state positively from his examination that she had been raped.

'Apprenticeship' Plan Held Exploited

Approximately 50 District firms are exploiting young workers by making false claims of "apprenticeship training," the District Apprenticeship Council charged yesterday.

Robert E. Phelps, chairman of the council's employer group, said the firms obtain "cheap" labor by telling high school boys and "underprivileged" young men they are being "trained" for journeyman status in various trades.

Such "trainees," he declared, could never become journeymen on the basis of the training offered.

He said the council will seek an audience with the Commissioners to discuss methods of cracking down on these firms, which do not meet training standards set up under the council's apprenticeship program.

In one case, he said, rival contractors have complained that a firm was able to underbid them "by 5 to 10 per cent" on every job because of the cheap labor obtained by this practice.

Phelps said the Commissioners will be asked to explore the possibilities of tightening licensing requirements and arranging for closer checks by building inspectors against the firms.

A "publicity campaign" to focus public attention on the offenders also is being considered by the council, he said.

Some of the firms also are abusing on-the-job training provisions of the GI Bill of Rights and the rehabilitation program for disabled veterans, he revealed. Protests against these firms have been made to the Veterans Administration, he said.

To Cure Fund Ills

Cain Favors Sales Tax For District

Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) yesterday told the Senate District Committee a sales tax for Washington "is the only reasonable approach" to the city's budget-revenue problems.

A conference on the sales tax issue is scheduled for 9:30 a. m. today, with Cain, Representative George J. Bates (R., Mass.) and other officials slated to attend. Cain and Bates head the Senate and House subcommittees in charge of District tax legislation.

Cain told the Senate committee that if a sales tax is passed he would like to include a provision for repealing the District's personal income tax at a specified future date.

Senator Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.) seconded Cain's call for a sales tax, declaring that type of levy "makes more sense for the District than any other place I've ever seen."

Senator Arthur Capper (R., Kans.) said there was a general impression merchants in Washington were making more profits than in other cities and declared "I'm just wondering if we are justified in placing on consumers the costs of government that could better be borne by businessmen."

Senator Cain said businessmen are already subjected to a number of direct taxes.

Senate District Chairman C. Douglass Buck (R., Del.) raised a question about chances for increasing the Federal payment to the District to help cover a deficit in the city budget. Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.) said he would rather see such an increase than a sales tax, but Senator Ball predicted Congress would not be likely to raise the payment much above the present figure of 12 million dollars a year.

School Closing Discussed by Census Group

A proposal for the closing of schools throughout the country during the first week in April, 1950, was discussed yesterday at the first session of a Census Bureau conference with representatives of educational and teacher associations.

The conference was called to plan for the participation of the public schools of the country in the seventeenth decennial census of the United States two years from now.

After an opening talk by Census Director J. C. Capt, the group went over some of the problems connected with the census, which is expected to require considerably more than the 120,000 field enumerators employed in the 1940 operation.

Today's session at the headquarters of the Census Bureau, Suitland, Md., will be devoted to legal aspects of teacher participation in the census, uniform timing of the work, and a general discussion of methods of school participation.

Kensington Fair Shows Typical London Settings

Several hundred persons yesterday attended a novel fair held in Kensington, Md., which featured settings typical of London's Kensington Gardens.

A second and last day of the fair will be held today in the Knowles ave. area of Kensington between Connecticut and Lincoln aves. It is sponsored by Christ Episcopal Church.

Silver Spring Church to Be In Technicolor

Cameras will start grinding today for the production of "A Blueprint and a Prayer," a technicolor sound film on the origin and growth of the Congregational Christian Church of Silver Spring.

Organized just four years ago after a study by the Washington Federation of Churches disclosed that the area was under-churched, the Silver Spring church is the first one established by the denomination in a program to provide adequate churches in such areas.

Financial backing for the church comes from the denomination's Board of Home Missions, the Middle Atlantic Conference and the congregation here.

Members to Take Part

Congregational Christian headquarters in New York arranged for the film on the church's development, which is believed to be the first movie of its kind.

The shooting schedule for the film goes into effect at 10:30 a. m. today, when members will preview a ground-breaking ceremony before the camera. Actual ground-breaking will not take place until May 30.

During the next two weeks members will participate in a series of outdoor and indoor sequences which will thread together the history of the congregation.

The original membership of 120 has today grown to 287 under the guidance of the paster, the Rev. John F. McClelland.

For the past four years the congregation has been meeting in the gymnasium and class rooms of Montgomery Blair High School.

4 Chaplains To Be Honored By Hero Stamp

The four chaplains who sacrificed their lives in the sinking of the S.S. Dorchester will be honored May 28 when a 3-cent stamp commemorating their act is issued.

The chaplains, a Catholic, a Jew and two Protestants, gave their life belts to soldiers when the troopship was torpedoed off Greenland in 1943. According to survivors' reports the four stood together praying on the deck of the ship as it went down.

Pictured on the stamp will be the Rev. George L. Fox, Cambridge, Vt.; the Rev. Clark V. Poling, Schenectady, N. Y., Protestants, the Rev. John P. Washington, Arlington, N. J., Catholic priest, and Rabbi Alexander D. Goode, of Washington.

At first-day sales ceremonies at the White House Friday, nearest of kin of the chaplains will be guests. Later the relatives will attend a luncheon at the Willard Hotel sponsored by the Washington Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The stamp will be black and special delivery size. Across the top will be the words "These Immortal Chaplains . . . Interfaith in Action."

Rabbi Goode, who attended schools here, was a graduate of Eastern High School. During summers he served as substitute spiritual leader of the Washington Hebrew Congregation. His wife, Mrs. Therest Goode, and 8-year-old daughter Rosalie, live at 5000 2d st. nw.

Construction will soon begin on a $172,000 first unit of the church, which will include a chancel and nave, classrooms and church offices, an auditorium and kitchen.

Prince Georges Police to Hold Safety Drive

Prince Georges County police, alarmed over a rising accident toll, will open a countywide safety drive on Wednesday.

Six persons have been killed and 114 injured in 227 accidents in the first four months of the year, county records show.

County, State and municipal police will take part in the campaign, Major Ralph W. Brown, superintendent of county police, said. He also told newsmen yesterday that there "will be no ticket-fixing."

The recently organized Prince Georges County Traffic Safety Committee, alarmed by the 63 persons killed and 505 injured in 775 motor vehicle accidents on the county highways in 1947, urged police to launch the campaign.

Louis B. Arnold, chairman of the safety committee's coordinating unit, called upon all county and municipal police and officials to cooperate and to stamp out what "little ticket-fixing" there is in the county.

"Only by fair and impartial enforcement, without privilege, can we stop this needless highway loss of life and property," Arnold declared.

Speeding, driving on the wrong side of the road and failure to grant right of way were the most serious causes of accidents, according to H. H. McFarlin, chairman of the safety group's accident facts committee.

Major Brown said that every traffic regulation, regardless of how minor, will be enforced more rigidly than ever when the campaign gets under way Wednesday. No warnings will be issued, all violators will be summoned to appear in court, Brown said.

Chief Brown will meet with municipal and State police officials before Wednesday to map out the campaign, he said.

A spring choral festival will be presented by the ministry of music at Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and I sts. nw., Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

More than 300 singers from the Calvary Choir, Burral Choral Ensemble, the Chapel Choir, Calvary Junior Choir and the Washington Boy and Girl Choirs will join in the program. In addition to singing separate numbers, the choirs will join in singing hymns and anthems.

Dr. Clarence W. Cranford, minister of the church, will speak on "A Singing Faith" at the service. Clyde J. Holt is minister of music at Calvary Baptist.

Lutheran Group Convenes Sunday

The Maryland Synodical Brotherhood of the United Lutheran Church in America will hold its twenty-eighth annual convention at the Lutheran Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa., Sunday and Monday. Representatives of Lutheran churches in Washington and Maryland will attend the sessions.

Speakers will include John W. Boehne, former Congressman and member of Calvary Lutheran Church, Silver Spring, Md., and Dr. Raymond J. Seeger, secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, who is a member of the Luther Place Memorial Church.

Church to Begin Summer Schedule

Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas Circle, will begin its summer schedule Sunday with an early service at 9 a. m., Sunday School at 9:45 a. m. and the regular service at 11 a. m.

Dr. L. Ralph Tabor, pastor of the church, will preach at the services on "The Man Who Wanted An Answer." The young people's series on "The Religious and Cultural Situation in Foreign Countries" will be concluded at 7 p. m. when Dr. John D. Hayes of the National Presbyterian Church speaks on conditions in China.

Arlington Crypt To Be Consecrated

Bishop Peter L. Ireton of Richmond will consecrate a crypt dedicated to Our Lady of Fatima on June 3 at 11 a. m. at Missionhurst, 4651 North 25th st., Arlington. Missionhurst is the American central house of the Immaculate Heart Missions.

Preceding the formal opening of the crypt, regular masses will be said on Saturdays at 9 a. m. and the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be given each Sunday at 4 p. m.

Baptists Mum on Civil Rights

Memphis, Tenn., May 21 (AP).— Southern Baptists reaffirmed their opposition to universal military training today and agreed to withhold any comment on President Truman's civil rights program.

The convention adopted without opposition the report of its Social Service Commission, covering these and other recommendations.

The body rejected a proposal by Dr. S. G. Posey of Berkeley, Calif., that it assure the people of Israel of "our sympathy for them in this struggle."

Dr. John B. Buchanan of Birmingham, Ala., said the body wished neither to identify itself as "pro-Jewish or anti-Jewish, nor pro-Arab or anti-Arab."

On race relations, the commission reported "highly significant progress."

The convention deferred action on a proposed alliance of Northern and Southern branches.

After a floor fight the convention voted to accept Kansas Baptist churches into membership—an action that extends the Southern group farther north than ever before.

The group adopted a proposal urging that Congress ban any use, "direct or indirect," of Federal funds for private or parochial schools.

Choir Festival Sunday

An annual choir festival will be presented at 11 a. m. Sunday at First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw. Three choirs will participate in the presentation of anthems and Mendelssohn's cantata "Hear My Prayer."

GOD'S ANSWER TO EVOLUTION!

Did the earth come into existence by a gradual process of evolution over a period of millions of years or was it created in six literal twenty-four-hour days? How much older is the earth than man? Are men and monkeys relatives? Can evolutionists tell the age of the earth by the bones they dig from the ground?
YOUR AND THE ENTIRE FAMILY should hear this intensely interesting and important lecture.

Robert L. Boothby.

Worsham Wins Two Matches in PGA

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

ST. LOUIS, MAY 21.—There is more to this PGA championship than meets the eye. The winner, of course, gets the $3500 first prize, but that's not the half of it. He can gold-line his safety deposit box with the hidden profits of the PGA title.

POVICH

If the winner is working for one of the big golf-equipment manufacturers, and he probably is, because all of the top pros are in the hire of merchandising people, there's another reward implicit in his title. His firm will match the tournament's $3500 top prize, and that isn't all. His royalties go up.

The people with the biggest stake in this week's tournament are the club and the manufacturers. In effect, the Wilson Co., Spalding and the McGregor-Goldsmith firm are sending out their mercenaries to do battle for the PGA title. Their company payrolls are stacked with the top pros. A victory for Spalding Clubs or Wilson Clubs or McGregor balls, as the case may be, means more sales to the millions of duffers who wouldn't be caught on a golf course with anything different from the equipment of the champion.

THE WILSON people have going for them, for example, such stalwarts as Sammy Snead and Lloyd Mangrum and Gene Sarazen. Also the defending PGA champion, Jim Ferrier, and Ed Oliver and Dutch Harrison and Skip Alexander and Vic Ghezzi. For displaying Wilson balls and clubs, they are on retainer fees. The really big shots of the group, like Mangrum and Snead and Sarazen and Ferrier, who have their names on particular models of the Wilson clubs, also get royalties.

McGregor hasn't gone into the tournament empty handed, either. Carrying the banner of that firm are Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret. And Tony Penna, who shot that sparkling 65 in the qualifying round yesterday, is a McGregor man. And so are Claude Harmon and Chick Harbert and George Fazio. It's a hefty McGregor lineup that is taking on Wilson and Spalding.

And Spalding could take it all, too. That firm gave Bobby Jones a vice presidency a few years back to get his endorsement of its clubs and balls. In this week's tournament, it is represented by Lew Worsham, the open champion, and long-driving Jimmy Thomson, and the Turnesas, Mike and Jim, and Lawson Little and the latest sensation, Johnny Palmer.

EVEN THE drugstores are getting into the golf act. A few years ago Johnny Bulla, playing a 60-cent drugstore ball, sent counter sales booming by winning big tournaments. This year, Chick Harbert is playing a Rexall ball, and indirectly representing Sears & Roebuck which will take a loud bow for its product if Harbert happens to become the PGA champion.

There can be only one winner, but the PGA is doing the decent thing by the lesser-known pros who are turning their backs on practice-lesson fees for a week to take a fling at big-time golf. For those 70 pros who don't survive the qualifying round, the PGA is paying their transportation one way. For those pros who do qualify and are put out in the first round of match play, the PGA will add $100 toward expenses.

The PGA title is worth as much as the National Open crown to the pro who wins it. It automatically calls for whopping exhibition fees and if won by a colorful personality like Sarazen or Snead or Demaret or Harbert, could be a $50,000 asset. Lew Worsham didn't capitalize to that amount on his National Open title in the last year for lack of good management.

MEANWHILE, Gene Sarazen, owner of a nimble mind for golf and other affairs, and who does not hesitate to speak it, finds fault with the present conditions of the PGA Tournament. He says they ought to throw out the two days of qualifying and let the field of 128 plunge right into match play, to stimulate more interest in the tournament. Two rounds of qualifying is boring, he says.

"More than half the pros come to the PGA and don't qualify and go home tabbed as failures," says Sarazen. "That isn't fair, and the fellows from the small clubs deserve a better shot at it. I made my reputation years ago by knocking off big names like Jock Hutchinson and Jim Barnes and Walter Hagen in 18-hole match play rounds, because I had a shot at them.

"Some of these lesser-known pros might beat the big names if they could survive the qualifying. At least, they could go home and tell the folks 'I carried Snead to the fifteenth' or 'I lost out to Hogan' and it would sound better. It would take the sting out of it for the club pros who don't qualify. The PGA ought to start thinking about the little guys who make up 90 per cent of our membership."

Nats Lose To Browns Again, 4-3

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

St. Louis, May 21.—The Nats regained a measure of respectability tonight but couldn't quite achieve victory. They took another defeat from the Browns but in no way did it resemble the 17-7 lacing of the night before. This latest engagement was a 4-3 affair.

The Browns wrapped it up in the third inning with a four-run outburst against Ray Scarborough. The fragrance of the relief pitching of Tom Ferrick who held the Browns to two hits and no runs from that point was utterly wasted.

Mr. Priddy Does It—

The Washington club tonight was victim of a slight mistake made last winter. That was the uninspired trade of Second Baseman Gerry Priddy to the Browns. Mr. Priddy whacked a big single in the Browns' third inning to fetch two important runs over the plate.

Four of the Browns' six hits of the game were packed into their enterprising third inning, and they came in succession against the hapless Scarborough. The Nats outhit the Browns, 8 to 6, a dubious distinction as arrayed against the night's results.

Sam Zoldak, who last year made a nice living beating the Nats—four of his eight victories were against Washington—held 'em in check for seven innings tonight but retired under pressure at that point. The Nats had the tying runs on base in the eighth and ninth.

Zoldak Retires—by Request

Rookie Ed Stewart's three-bagger put the Nats back in the ball game in the eighth. It was a lengthy blow to right center with two out and scored Gil Coan who had walked and Mickey Vernon who had singled. It also ushered Zoldak out of the ball game and brought in Righthander Al Widemar.

Jake Early was installed as a pinch-hitter for Al Evans at that point and provided the third out—a line drive to Platt in left field.

Widemar disposed of Pinch Hitters Early Wynn and Tom McBride at the start of the ninth but walked Yost to put the tying run on base. Now present at the plate was Al Kozar, who had twice doubled against Zoldak and also hit a single, but in this crisis he grounded tamely to Priddy.

Kozar Has Two Doubles

Kozar's first two-bagger of the game, in the first inning was wasted, but his second wasn't. It was a blow against hte screen in right field and scored Yost who had previously singled.

Scarborough's pass to Roy Partee, the only walk issued to the Browns all night, started 'em on their four-run rampage in the third. Zoldak led off the parade of singles that followed with a blow to right. It scored Partee with the tying run. Dillinger beat out a single to short and Stevens singled to center to score Zoldak. Stevens took second on the throw-in and Priddy scored two runners with his single to center.

Ferrick took charge after that and bravely tried to keep the Nats in the ball game with two-hit pitching for the rest of the way . . . Manager Joe Kuhel shook up his lineup, benching .190-hitting Johnny Sullivan and installing Rookie Sam Meeks at shortstop . . . He also promoted Al Kozar from eighth to second place in the batting order and Kozar's three hits were immediate dividends . . . Carden Gillenwater made no hits and struck out twice, but he cut off at least three runs with super catch in center field . . . Sid Hudson will try to salvage a victory for the Nats in the finale of the series tomorrow afternoon.

Bosox Bats Boom, Blast Indians, 11-5

Cleveland, May 21 (AP).—The long-silent bats of the Boston Red Sox boomed out today in an 18-hit barrage and swamped the league-leading Cleveland Indians, 11 to 5.

Paced by Ted Williams' eighth home run, a tremendous clout into the upper deck in right field, the Sox erased an early Cleveland lead and turned the game into a rout.

Williams had a perfect day at the plate, with four hits and two walks in six trips. Larry Doby clouted a homer for the Indians in the seventh with Thurman Tucker on base.

Chisox Finally Win, Beating Yanks, 3-0

Chicago, May 21 (AP).—Lefty Ed Wight and Catcher Aaron Robinson of the Chicago White Sox teamed up today and beat their former New York Yankee teammates, 3-0.

Wight, who along with Robinson and Pitcher Fred Bradley were traded by the Yanks to the Sox for Pitcher Ed Lopat, chilled the New Yorkers on three singles in outpitching Frank Shea.

Robinson collected two hits, batted in a run and scored a run.

Lew Beats Al Watrous, Errie Ball

By Skipper Patrick

St. Louis, May 21 (AP).—Lew Worsham of Washington, D. C., little more than an average player since winning the United States Open here last year, gave a brilliant exhibition of shotmaking in taking his second round match, 7 and 6, over Errie Ball, Oak Park, Ill., in the PGA tournament today.

Barely edging Al Watrous of Birmingham, Mich., 1-up in the first round, Worsham turned on the heat for a 4-under par 31 first nine that completely knocked out Ball.

Worsham had four birdies going out and Ball was down six strokes at the turn. Ball managed to halve the tenth, but Worsham came through with a par 4 victory on the eleventh that proved the winning margin. They halved the twelfth to end the match.

Harmon Removes Ferrier

Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., knocked Defending Champion Jim Ferrier of San Francisco out of the tournament in the second round 1, up.

Two down after 16 holes Ferrier sank a 16-foot putt to win the seventeenth with a par four as Harmon missed a shorter putt.

Then on the last hole Jim fired an iron shot that stopped dead within 18 inches of the pin. It looked like a sure thing, but Harmon, winner of the Augusta Masters tourney, drove in a beautiful 10-foot putter, halving the hole in birdie threes and winning the match.

Ben Hogan, the 1ath-like little Texan who can belt a golf ball right along with the big boys, staged two great comebacks to move into the third round.

Red Hot Against Palmer

After being carried to the twenty third hole of his morning match by Jock Hutchison, jr., of Glencoe, Ill., the slender shotmaker who plays from Hershey, Pa., shot an eagle and two birdies on the last four holes of his second match and turned back Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., 1 up.

This victory sent Hogan into the third round of 16 along with such prominent players as Open Champion Lew Worsham, Medalist Skip Alexander, Gene Sarazen, Jimmy Demaret, Sammy Snead and Ed (Porky) Oliver.

A lot of big-name pros flunked their test in this short course shotmaking as the two 18-hole rounds of match play reduced the field of 64 qualifiers to the 16 who will go into tomorrow's 36-hole contests.

Penna, Smith, Hamilton Out

Among those knocked out in the first round were Toney Penna, whose 135 left him only a stroke behind Alexander in yesterday's qualifying rounds; such well-known veterans as Horton Smith, Lawson Little, Dutch Harrison, Vic Ghezzi, Bob Hamilton and Herman Keiser, who looked like threats on the basis of their qualifying performances.

Smith and Harrison carried their opponents, Jimmy Demaret and Defending Champion Jim Ferrier, to the twentieth green before losing out. These were just two of the seven extra-hole matches in the first round. Eight other winners didn't come through until they hit the eighteenth green.

A strong wind which blew across the course all morning made the tricky 6467-yard par 71 Norwood Hills layout even harder than it looked. The stars had been having trouble right along with the many side-hill fairways and intruding traps. The wind made it even more difficult for them to place their shots safely.

U. S. Holds 2-1 Lead in Curtis Golf

Birkdale, England, May 21 (AP).—This country's biggest golfing gallery since prewar days saw half a dozen feminine links stars from the United States roll up a 2-1 lead over Great Britain today in defense of the Curtis Cup.

Here are the results of the 18-hole two-ball foursome matches played over the sunburned fairways of the seaside Birkdale Course as 3000 fans looked on:

Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C., and Dorothy Kielty of Los Angeles walloped Maureen Ruttle of England and Mrs. Val Reddan of Ireland, 5 and 4.

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare of Merion, Pa., the American captain, and Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga., swept past Philomena Garvey, the Irish champion, and Mrs. Zara Bolton of England, 4 and 3.

Jean Donald of Scotland and Jacqueline Gordon of England saved the British team from a shutout in the day's play, however, by defeating Louise Suggs, U. S. Women's champion from Atlanta, and Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., 3 and 2.

The Americans now need only two wins and a tie in tomorrow's six singles matches to take the cup back across the Atlantic.

Hursey Beaten In Dreary Bout

New York, May 21 (AP).—Anton Raadik of Chicago and Estonia eliminated himself and Smuggy Hursey as Madison Square Garden main go performers tonight when he won a split 10-round decision over the 20-year-old Washington Negro. Raadik weighed 161, Hursey, 158½ for the dreary star bout.

Ineffective was the word for both Raadik and Hursey in a slow match fought to the accompaniment of boos and catcalls from the crowd of 7082 which paid $18,925 for the privilege.

Eastern Trackmen Win Interhigh Title

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Eastern's track team established itself as one of the finest in District public high history yesterday as it scored 77 points to win its first interhigh championship in nine years.

In second place with 32½ points was Woodrow Wilson, which lost the crown it had worn for five consecutive years. Trailing were Central with 27, McKinley Tech with 19½, Calvin Coolidge with 16, Aanacostia with 15, Western with 12½, and Roosevelt with 10½.

Grabbing eight firsts, and finishing no worse than third in all but two events, the winning Ramblers scored a record number of points for an eight-team field. Only four interhigh teams have ever scored more points, Central in 1922, and Tech in 1934, '35, and '36, but they were compiled when the league consisted of only five teams.

Two meet records were shattered and a third tied. All these were achieved by Eastern athletes.

Eastern's Forrest Miles was clocked in 9.9 seconds in the 100 to equal the record he has set last Wednesday in the trials.

Miles also won the 220-yard dash to complete an undefeated season in the two sprint events.

Miles ran anchor on the winning 880-yard relay team which included Elmer Landon, Dick Perkins and Ted Collins. They set a meet record of 1:32, eclipsing the record of 1:33.6 set by Western last year.

Otis Brown's toss of 53 feet, 2½ inches, which set a record for the shot in Wednesday's trials, stood. Brown also captured the discus.

Although Miles scored 11¼ points for the winning Ramblers, honors went to his teammate, Elmer Landon, who besides running on the record breaking half-mile relay team, took firsts in the low hurdles, broad jump, and a second in the 100-yard dash. Landon's total was 15¼.

Danny Ventres, a holdover from Wilson's two most recent championship teams, also stood out in the field of 260 by scoring 12¾ points. He took a first in the 440, tied for first in the high jump, was a member of the winning mile relay team, and was fourth in the broad jump.

Gardner Wins Indian Spring Tourney, 2-1

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

Jim Gardner and Ted Burrows, whom few expected to survive the semifinal round, played for the championship of the Indian Spring Invitational golf tournament yesterday with Gardner winning, 2 and 1.

The match ended on the seventeenth hole, which was halved in bogie fours, but it was quite an accomplishment for the 41-year-old Burrows that the match went as far as it did.

He had a wretched 42, seven over par, on the outgoing nine and everyone except himself kissed off his chances of carrying the match even as far as the fifteenth hole. But he did, winning four holes on the back side to lend a mildly exciting climax to what had all the earmarks of a rout.

Bogart Spanked, 5-4

Gardner, 34-year-old Washington Golf and Country Club husky, reached the payoff bracket by walloping Favorite Ralph Bogart of Chevy Chase, 5 and 4, in the morning semifinals. It was one of the worst pastings the burly Bogart has suffered since he became one of the District's top players.

Gardner fired a sizzling 32, three-under-par, on the first nine and had Bogart six down at the turn. Bogart faded out of the picture on the fourteenth when his tee shot hit a tree.

Burrows, four-times local Publinx champ who now plays out of Manor Country Club, overcame Buddy Sharkey, of Indian Spring, 4 and 3, to contest Gardner for the championship.

Against Burrows on the first nine of their title round, Gardner was even par for the first eight holes, but bogied the par four ninth for his 36.

Burrows had a birdie four on the tenth and a par four on the twelfth to whittle two holes off his deficit. Gardner recouped by dropping in a 20-foot putt on the thirteenth to move in front by four holes. Burrows hung on, however, winning the fifteenth and sixteenth with pars. Both needed fours, one over the card, on the short seventeenth and the bogey was good enough to bring Gardner his victory.

Gal Royal Runs Second, Eire Third

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., May 21.—Local Band, an aptly named son of On Location and Swing Band, has been a bit off key this year as far as getting in the winner's circle is concerned. Today he operated on the right downbeat and finally won on his fourteenth try of the year, the tenth time he's been in the money.

Jockey Bobby Shirey, wearing the colors of C. C. Collins, took Local Band to the front at once as it was little more than a waltz for the 4-year-old colt thereafter. Local Band gave his backers the jitters when he attempted to run out entering the stretch but Shirey soon had him shipshape.

Second and four lengths behind the winner came Dr. A. S. Moore's Gay Royal. J. H. Wein's Eire was third in the field of eight going 6½ furlongs over a fast track.

Third Last Race

Local Band, third as an odd-on favorite on an off course in his first outing here, was a $5.20 choice today and was clocked in 1:19 4/5.

The day's big monetary news was supplied by George Queen's Spread Wings, a first time starter in the fourth race. Showing a total disregard for the opposition and running as if he owned the track, the 3-year-old won by five lengths.

Spread Wings caused a big spread on the results board with $93.40 to win, $66.60 to place and $16.40 to show. Jockey A. Martinez rode this winner.

Thrilling Double

A pair of thrilling finishes marked the key races to the daily double which paid $83.80. Maryland Morn took the first in a three-way photo while Tenebrose accounted for the second in another triple battle.

The first disqualification of the meeting came in the seventh race. Phil Sheridan's Honoured was placed third after getting home in front of Balloon and Patience. Jockey Emilo Carrillo, who rode Patience, made the objection against Bill Nertney who rode Honoured.

Gen. Cox Due To End Battle Of Colonels

Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox is expected to return to his command of the D. C. National Guard today, thus reducing to a tactical skirmish the recent strategic "Battle of the Colonels" which brought doubt as to who was commander in his absence.

Although Col. Peyton G. Nevitt, adjutant general of the D. C. Guard, said yesterday the local situation was in hand, with orders being issued by him as commander in the absence of General Cox, the latter will have to deal with charges against Colonel Nevitt filed by Col. LeRoy S. Mann.

In the charges, filed with the White House, Colonel Mann claimed he outranked Colonel Nevitt by seniority and said the latter usurped the position of acting commander of the local Guard during General Cox's month-long trip to Europe.

The charges were turned over to Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughn, Army aid to President Truman, who is expected to ask General Cox for a full report on the Battle of the Colonels.

11 D. C. Bills Are Cleared By Senate Committee

4 Others Move Up In House; 3-Member Board on Armory Is Given Approval

A stricter law for combating sex offenses in Washington and establishment of a three-member control board to run nonmilitary activities at the District armory were among 11 local bills cleared yesterday by the Senate District Committee.

Four other District bills, including the one to permit direct admission of chronic mental patients to St. Elizabeths Hospital, were approved by the House District Subcommittee headed by Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.).

The Senate committee, headed by Senator C. Douglass Buck (R., Del.), wrote only technical amendments into the House-approved armory-control and sex-offiense bills.

Differ on Third Member

The Senate group agreed with the House that the nonmilitary activities at the armory should be placed under a three-member board, on which the District Commissioners and the National Guard shall be represented. But where the House said the third member should be the architect of the Capitol, the Senate committee decided the third member should be a person who is not an employe of either the District or Federal Government and who would be selected for a three-year term by the chairmen of the House and Senate District Committees.

Capitol Architect David Lynn had asked to be relieved of the armory assignment because of the pressure of other duties.

In the sex-offender bill, the Senate committee removed from one definition general language which District Health Officer George C. Ruhland had protested might lend itself to blackmail. In another section, the Senate group agreed with the House that indictments for sex crimes should not set out lurid details of the actions involved, but wrote in a requirement that any defendant should be furnished a bill of particulars on the offense upon motion of his attorney.

Other Measures Approved

Other bills approved by the Senate committee would:

1. Let the District lease land tracts it owns or acquires for periods up to 50 years for the construction of off-street parking facilities by private interests. The city parking program is now being hampered by a five-year limit on such leases, the Commissioners told Congress.

2. Authorize payment of about $29,500 to 11 home owners who sustained property damages in excess of their prewar condemnation awards in the widening of Eastern ave.

3. Authorize $37,000 to be appropriated and other arrangements to be made for the next presidential inaugural ceremony. This program is contained in three House-approved resolutions.

4. Establish the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Washington as a single-member corporation for the conduct of church business formerly handled here by the Baltimore Archdiocese.

5. Permit increasing from 15 to 30 the number of trustees for the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation here.

Fee Consolidation

6. Make a $1 fee cover the cost of recording and releasing liens, in place of separate 50 cent fees for each operation.

7. Give District and Federal hospitals authority to place liens against compensation payments to insure payment of hospital bills by accident victims, as private hospitals can do now.

The Senate group tabled a bill for limiting the number of taxicabs in Washington when Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.) served notice he would fight it to the end on the ground that it would create a monopoly here in the taxicab industry.

Senate committee action was postponed on bills for revising the teacher pay act, for permitting the police to destroy weapons they seize legally from persons carrying them illegally, and for regulating the placement of radio and television towers here.

Bills cleared by Miller's subcommittee would:

1. Add United States citizenship to present qualifications for practicing medicine in the District.

2. Fix fees for barbers' registration in the District at a new scale ranging from $5 to $20.

3. Authorize issuance of a chiropractor's license to Samuel O. Burdette, waiving the requirement of a 1929 law that his application should have been made within 90 days of the time the law took effect. Burdette practiced here for some 10 years, then was out of Washington on duty with the United States Public Health Service from 1928 to 1942. He is now acting chief of the drug and medical sales division of War Assets Administration. He lives at 2335 Green st. se. The Commissioners approved the bill, on the basis of a report by the healing arts commission that Burdette met all the requirements for a license under the law, except for the 90-day clause.

Salesman Shot, Then Held on Drunk Charge

Wounded Man Says He Must Have Been Misled at Circus

A 45-year-old salesman shot in the leg by Police Pvt. Edward Neill, 27, early yesterday, was released from Gallinger Hospital last night and charged with being drunk.

J. Fred Carter, of 1055 Quebec pl. nw., posted $10 collateral at the Eleventh Precinct station. Doctors said his wound in the right calf was slight.

Captain James Silvea, of the Eleventh Precinct, said Neill was cleared of any blame in the shooting.

Neill, who lives at 6136 Banks pl. ne., said he was called about 3:30 a. m., while off duty and asleep, by a neighbor, Samuel Hale, of 6138 Banks pl. ne. Hale said he had surprised a man trying to break into Hale's home and that the suspect had gotten into the policeman's parked car.

The policeman, a vice squad undercover man who has been on the force 14 months, said he found the man in his car and asked him what he was doing.

"Instead of answering, he reached for his right hip pocket—as though for a gun," Neill said in explaining why he had fired his .38-caliber service revolver. Neill then had his wife call police to take Carter to the hospital.

Carter, whose wife, an expectant mother, is in Roanoke, Va., told a reporter who called him at home last night: "I went to the circus Thursday night but I can't account for the lapse of time between the end of the show and 3:30 a. m. I must have been misled."

Man Is Given 5 Years for Rape Attempt

Raymond Lynn, 23, of Seat Pleasant, Md., was sentenced yesterday to 5 to 15 years in the penitentiary for attempting to rape a 22-year-old Catholic University coed the night of February 20.

Federal Judge James F. Fee, whose court sits in Oregon but who has been "on loan" to the District Court here, imposed the sentence after overruling a motion for a new trial for Lynn.

Lynn's alleged victim, Rose Mary Schwer of 20 Adams st. ne., got off of a streetcar near the university. Lynn followed her. Lynn was grabbed by three university students who held him until the police arrived. Lynn's first trial, which was before District Court Justice Edward M. Curran, ended in a mistrial, when the jurors were unable to agree.

Judge Fee also imposed a sentence of 20 months to 5 years in the penitentiary on Samuel J. Hanns, 32, of 2213 S st. ne., who was convicted of stealing an automobile.

Other sentences in the District Court yesterday inoluded:

Charles Q. Rivers, 19, of 513 Kenyon st. nw., who was sentenced to serve one to five years in the penitentiary by Justice Alexander Holtzoff, for carnal knowledge of a 13-year-old girl.

Mrs. Indiana Tucker, 17, of 620 Florence st. ne., who was sentenced to one to four years on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the fatal shooting of her husband, Wilbert Tucker, 24, in a family quarrel which followed a drinking party the night of February 8. Justice David A. Pine imposed the sentence.

Kenneth Wilcher, 26, without address, who was sentenced by Justice Richmond B. Keech to a year in jail for an assault on a 19-year-old girl. Wilcher pleaded guilty to the assault charge, which was reduced from a charge of rape.

At Center Market

Shopping Is Real Art (Exhibition)

Trout was 35 cents a pound at the Center Market yesterday, asparagus 60 cents a bunch—and art $7 to $100.

There were plenty of takers for the trout and asparagus, and if there were no buyers for paintings and sculpture the first day of the Corcoran School of Art students' exhibit, there was at least plenty of interest.

Everybody from Mrs. Elizabeth E. Burgess of 53 New York ave. nw., whose son, Alexius, has a picture in the show, to Miss Georgia Strine of Milton, Pa., and Mrs. Mallie Newsom of Jackson, Tenn., who read about the exhibit in the paper, thought the idea was "good."

"We don't know if people come to shop and see the pictures," said Charles F. Schomaker, manager of the Market, an acre of food concessions at K and 5th sts. nw., "or if they come to see the pictures and stay to shop, but the show is attracting a lot of attention.

FHA Well Represented

"There are about 450 Federal Housing employes working nearby, and I think most of them must have come this noon to see the pictures," he said.

One of those who came to see the pictures was Joseph Yznaga of 1822 Harvard st. nw. A bank teller who makes a hobbly of attending art exhibits, Yznaga stopped off at the Market en route to the beach. "Very good, a very good idea," he said, "making it easier for people to see art."

Among those who came to shop and lingered to see the exhibit was George Lee of Hyattsville, a salesman. "I was a little amazed when I first saw the paintings," he said; then thoughtfully, "some are good and some not so good."

Art was taking hold with the unaffected Market's merchants, too.

Said one white-aproned salesman to another, consulting the catalogue, "It says here it is "Still Life."

He's Still Puzzled

"Still Life!" exclaimed the other. Then puzzlingly, looking at the rather abstract painting, "I can't find anything in it."

And among the florists, closest to the balcony where most of the paintings are hung, there was lively interest. "Hey," called one to a neighbor late in the afternoon, "Has No. 30 been sold yet?"

Four paintings were reported sold at the semi-private opening Thursday night, but none can be taken down until the show closes June 21. The Market is open from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. Monday-through-Fridays, and 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. Saturdays.

McGarraghy To Head D. C. Boosters Again

Greater National Capital Committee Drive Goal Approaches ¾ Mark

President Leon Chatelain, jr., of the Washington Board of Trade announced the reappointment of Joseph C. McGarraghy as chairman of the Greater National Capital Committee, at the committee's third campaign luncheon held yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel.

McGarraghy

A past president of the Board of Trade, McGarraghy also will continue as chairman of the executive committee of the sesquicentennial commission. Chatelain pointed out he would be able to integrate the GNC Committee program with "events of national significance planned for 1950."

Dan Holland, 1948 fund-raising campaign chairman, announced that 67.3 per cent of the $85,000 quota had been raised for funds with which to sponsor tourist attractions and conventions in the 1948-49 season.

Three divisions have reached 100 per cent of their quotas, he said. They are newspapers, with $1700, under Chairman William A. Shelton; laundries, with $500, under Chairman Jay Conger, and building and loan groups with $2500, under Chairman E. L. McAleer.

A native of Washington, McGarraghy graduated from Georgetown University Law School in 1921, and after serving as assistant corporation counsel for the District, entered private law practice.

He served as industry representative on the War Manpower Commission's labor-management committee for the District. He was chairman of the War Hospitality Committee and president of Recreation Service, Inc., which carried on welfare activities for thousands of servicemen and their families under the sponsorship of the District Commissioners.

Bar Association Installs Weeks

Maurice R. Weeks, 41, has been installed as president of the Washington Bar Association, it was announced yesterday.

Weeks, who is a member of the law firm of Caine, Brown, Howard & Weeks, succeeds William A. Powell as president of the law group.

Other officers selected include Leory H. McKinney, first vice president; W. S. Thompson, second vice president; George W. Peterson, recording secretary; Austin L. Fickling, correspondent, and Andrew J. Howard, jr., treasurer.

Woman Ordered to Return Ring to Her Former Fiance

The grim fact is, girls, that when the engagement is off, the ring must go back.

That was the ruling yesterday of Judge William B. Wheeler of Silver Spring Trial Magistrate Court, who granted a judgment to Corpl. Fred Crail, 21, of Westover Field, Mass. yesterday when he sued to get back his $200 ring.

Defendant in the case was Mrs. Clara Keiser of 223 Dale dr., Silver Spring, who, Crail claimed, broke their engagement to marry another man and refused to give back the ring.

Attorney Frank W. Vanderhoof, representing Crail, argued the ring was "symbolic" of the couple's bethrothed status and should be returned. He cited English common law which, he said, proved his point. He based his contention on the doctrine of "condition subsequent" and when the condition fails, so also does the gift.

In a separate suit heard at the same time, Crail also claimed he advanced a $150 loan to Mrs. Keiser which was never repaid and the court granted him a judgment on that.

Attorney Joseph C. Cissel representing Mrs. Keiser, appealed the decision in both suits to the County Circuit Court.

'Abuse' Tiff Slows D. C. Relief Funds

Public Assistance Division's Record Assailed, Defended Before Senate Unit

A tiff over alleged "abuses" by persons on the District relief rolls yesterday highlighted a three-hour session of the Senate District Appropriations Subcommittee.

Representatives of several private welfare agencies said that the abuses were small in number compared to the work done by the public assistance division of the Welfare Department, and urged an increase in funds for the PAD.

However, Kimball Sanborn, of the subcommittee staff, charged that last February he had observed the distribution of 70 relief checks at 462 Indiana ave. nw., and that 4 out of 10 persons calling for the financial assistance drove up in taxicabs.

Under Sharp Attack

The PAD deals with District residents on relief and came under sharp attack by the House Appropriations Committee for "abuses" during the past year. The committee, in preparing the District budget for fiscal '49—beginning July 1, 1948—slashed $198,000 from the sum requested for PAD by the District government.

Sidney Maslin, of the District charter, American Association of Social Workers, defended the operations of the public assistance division as being on par with similar units throughout the country, and insisted that an impartial survey by competent investigators would prove the point.

Considering that the PAD was serving 1000 more persons than three years ago with the same number of personnel, it has been doing a commendable job, Maslin declared. He urged restoration of both the House cut and an earlier slash made by the District Commissioners, amounting to an aggregate of $1,400,000.

Join in Appeal

Spokesmen for the Community Chest, Council of Social Agencies, and Family Service Organization joined in the plan for more PAD funds, warning that the health of the persons on relief would suffer acutely if the additional money was not granted.

The District Commissioners, meanwhile, testified before the Senate subcommittee that they were satisfied with the House-approved budget of $101,165,000 for fiscal 1949, and asked that three minor changes be made, adding $55,000 to the appropriation.

The Commissioners also asked for authority to increase the psychiatric staff of Gallinger Hospital from five to six.

Assistant Superintendent of Police Floyd A. Truscott urged the Senate subcommittee to indorse the House action in okaying 205 more policemen for the District. He said the Civil Service Commission had under consideration a plan to hold an exam for District police all over the country, since the bottom of the barrel had been reached in this area for further recruits.

Asks Three More Assistants

The Police Department spokesman also asked for three additional assistant police superintendents for night duty, a request earlier turned down by the House.

He also requested an additional $48,500 to assure funds for 25 clerks catching up with the backlog of the new centralized communications and records system of the Police Department.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, chairman of the Board of Education told the subcommittee she was concerned over rumors that it planned to cut the school construction program as already approved by the House. At the end of the testimony on the school budget, Senator Milton R. Young (R., N. Dak.), a subcommittee member, assured Mrs. Doyle she had nothing to fear about losing any funds already granted by the House.

Marshall L. Shepard, recorder of deeds, urged funds for 10 additional clerks in his office. The money has been refused by the House.

Washington I. Cleveland, head of the American Automobile Association's local branch, told the subcommittee that the AAA and the Chevrolet Division of General Motors were prepared to supply new Chevrolets to 16 District high schools for teachings students to drive if Congress approved a $42,000 item for 14 teachers.

50 Driven Out As Fire Sweeps 3-Story Building

About 50 persons were routed from their apartments at 403 Orange st. se. early yesterday during a stubborn blaze, which took firemen almost five hours to extinguish.

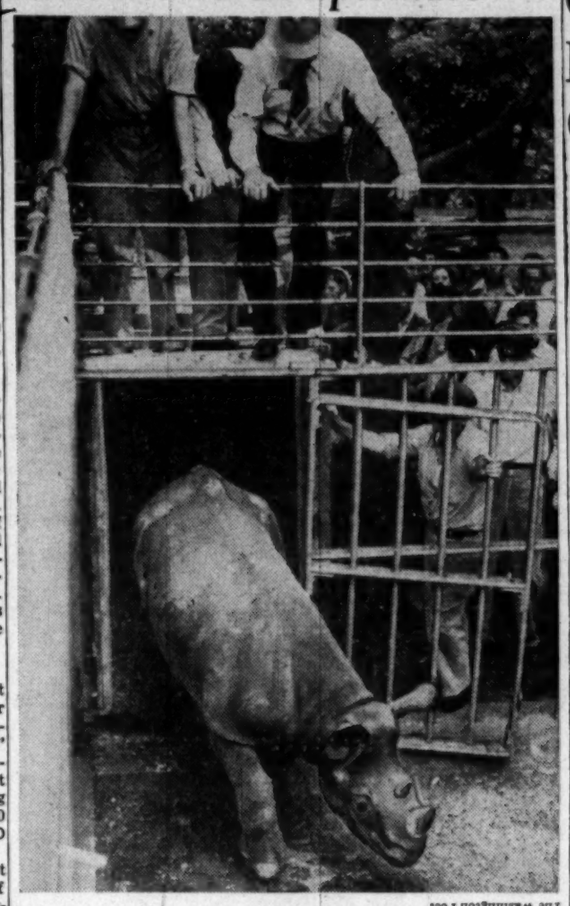
The fire apparently started in the second floor apartment of Donald Leighton and spread to the apartments directly under and above it, firemen said.

The cause was not determined.

Two firemen were slightly injured. Pvt. William N. Ickes, 29, of 337 Parkland pl. ne., attached to No. 8 Truck Company, was partly overcome by smoke and was cut on the right hand. Pvt. B. J. Walsh, 28, of 913 Quincy st. ne., of No. 25 Engine Company, was cut on the left hand. Both were treated at Emergency Hospital.

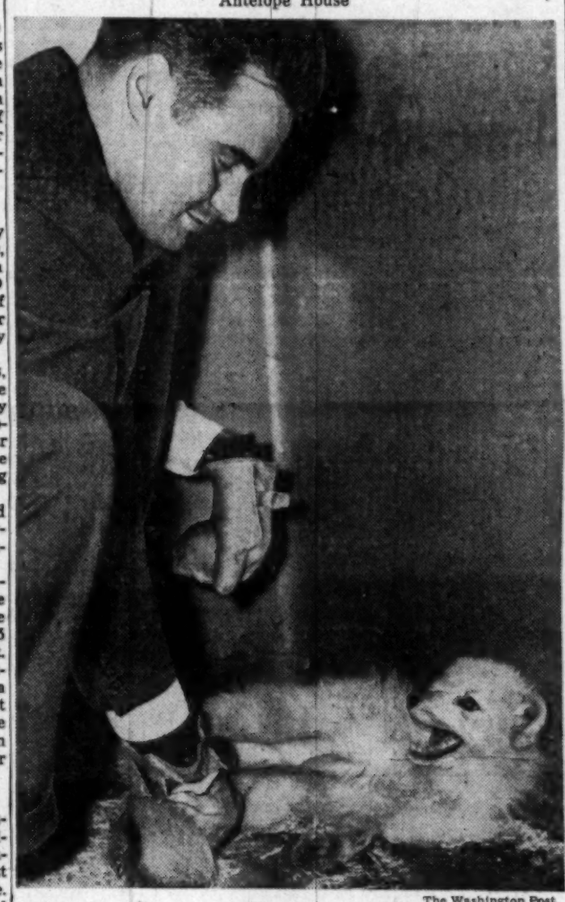
The alarm was sounded at 4:25 a. m.

Latest Resident of Zoo Defies Extremes of Temperature



The Washington Post

CAGED PERSONALITY—A three-year-old female rhinoceros arrives for a sojourn at the Washington Zoo. Dr. William Mann, Zoo director, borrowed her from Warren Buck, explorer and wild animal breeder of Camden, N. J. Visitors may call on her at the Antelope House



The Washington Post

HOT FOX FROM THE ARCTIC—Raymond J. Hock, his hands in heavy gloves, delivers an Arctic fox to the Washington Zoo. Hock, 30, research assistant at Cornell University, is on leave to the Naval Arctic Research Laboratory, Point Barrow, Alaska. The angry fox bit through his gloves and snarled its displeasure

Do you long to be coolly indifferent to the oven temperature of a Washington summer, hmmm?

Would you like, at the same time, to be equally immune to the icy blasts of even Siberian winters?

Why then just make like an alopex lagopus—and grow 1½ to 2 inches of hair all over.

Most Recent Arrival

We're talking, of course, about the Zoo's latest additon, a dirty little white Arctic fox, recently arrived from Alaska.

This temperature-defying marvel doesn't begin to shiver until the temperature plummets to 94 below. In fact, he recently survived an hour at 112 below. And 104 below is about the lowest temperature recorded on earth, in Siberia, we're told.

On the other hand, Whitey doesn't get really warm till the mercury flames up to 104 above.

Hair Is Insulation

The secret of Whitey's weather immunity is his insulating hair. So reports Raymond J. Hock, 30, Cornell University research assistant in zoology now visiting here at the Stratford Hotel.

Hock gave Whitey to the Zoo, after completion of laboratory experiments indicating the Arctic fox is probably the land animal most adapted to surviving any temperatures recorded on earth, barring only mountain sheep, maybe.

On leave from Cornell, Hock has been serving with the Office of Naval Research Arctic laboratory at Point Barrow, Alaska (where Whitey was not foxy enough to resist a seal-baited steel trap.) Hock completed the experiments at the Anacostia Naval Research Laboratory.

He also handed over to Dr. William M. Mann, Zoo director, a pair of Arctic birds—buntings, which like mere humans, proved less resilient to temperatures excesses.

Hock, a "pure" researcher, said it is possible applied scientists may one day find something in Whitey's secret of weather resistance helpful in devising protection for troops from biting cold. Hock's work is the study of Arctic animals' adaption to cold, the relation of temperature to metabolism.

Montgomery To Open Cash Bingo Probe

An investigation into how many Montgomery County organizations are staging bingo games with a cash payoff will be launched by Montgomery County police.

Police Chief Charles M. Orme said yesterday the practice is illegal and persons who stage such games, or participate, are on a legal par with numbers writers or bookies.

Such games, he said, are gambling, pure and simple, and convicted gamblers are subject to a $1000 fine and one year in jail.

Orme said the investigation arose partly from disclosure Wednesday that cash bingo games at Congressional Country Club had been closed down by police.

"I have reason to believe," Orme said, "that other organizations are conducting the games and if my information is correct, they will have to stop."

State law permits organizations to conduct bingo games when the profits are used for charitable purposes and when the payoff is in merchandise only, Orme said.

Permits for all such games must be obtained from the county commissioners.

5 Categories Of D.C. Aides Face Check On Loyalty

Young Outlines Jobs Considered 'Sensitive' to U. S. Security

Five categories of District employes whose jobs should be considered "sensitive" to national security were outlined yesterday by Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young.

He made public a "confidential" memoradum of April 30, which the Commissioners have adopted as a basis for a survey of "sensitive" jobs or installations. Employes in "sensitive" positions would include:

"1. Persons in charge of, or having access to, machinery or equipment or apparatus the sabotage of which would affect the functioning of the Federal Government, or of the city as a whole or significant areas thereof, or would materially hamper rescue or preventive activities in case of a catastrophe.

To Protect Dangerous Items

"2. Persons in charge of, or have access to, equipment or materials of any sort which might be used for the large-scale destruction of life or property, or the implementing of organized violence.

"3. Persons who have access more freely than does the general public to Federal offices or other structures or areas which are deemed to be "sensitive" from the national defense viewpoint.

"4. Persons who carry lethal weapons as a part of their duty, and who may, in the discharge of their duties, find themselves in the vicinity of any individual of national importance.

"5. Persons who in their official capacity possess or have access to secret or confidential information, transmission of which to unauthorized outsiders might have a materially damaging effect on national defense."

Young Gives Views

General Young said he considered the first and fourth category "most important." The first, he said, was designed primarily to cover "key points in our water system." (Actual location of these points was deleted when the memorandum was made public, he revealed.)

Asked if the fourth category would include all members of the police department, he said that was a matter for Police Supt. Robert J. Barrett or Commissioner John Russell Young to determine. Neither Major Barrett nor J. R. Young could be reached for comment.

The text of the "confidential" memorandum was made public yesterday after The Washington Post disclosed its connection with the proposed District agency check.

General Young said the purpose of the memorandum was to restrict the loyalty check only to persons in a position to do "material damage" to the Nation or the District and to prevent a general witch hunt.

The check, he declared, should be made "from the top down." "Any man in principle will be annoyed if he knows he's being checked," he pointed out. "I want my men to know the check is going to start with me and work on down."

Pentagon Cafe Workers File Loyalty Affidavits

The Military District of Washington yesterday announced that the 600 workers in Pentagon cafeterias and snack bars have completed loyalty affidavits.

The MDW order requiring such affidavits followed a similar order from Federal Works Administrator Philip B. Fleming directing employes of Government Services, Inc., to sign loyalty oaths by May 15 or lose their jobs. The GSI deadline has been extended to Monday, May 24.

MDW headquarters termed the order as "in the interests of security." Pentagon cafeterias are operated by the National Food Corp., which has a contract with Local 471, United Cafeteria Workers Union (CIO). A union spokesman last night confirmed the MDW announcement of completion of affidavits.

Arlington Man Held For Impersonation

An Arlington man was held for the grand jury by the Alexandria Civil and Police Court yesterday charged with passing himself off as an Arlington policeman to solicit advertising.

Listed as Roy P. Perry, 38-year-old salesman, of 3830 N. 9th st., Arlington, he was released on $1000 bond after a hearing before Judge James R. Duncan.

Complainant G. W. Brumfield, owner of a restaurant at 1017 King st., Alexandria, said Perry had tried to sell him a $5 ad for the publication Your Navy last March. According to Brumfield, Perry had passed himself off as "Lieutenant Perry" of the Arlington County Police and had said the police department would benefit from ads sold.

Brumfield said he had paid for the ad before learning there was no Arlington police lieutenant named Perry. Perry offered no defense, though his attorney in cross-examination brought out that Brumfield had previously told police Perry was the wrong man. Brumfield said he had done that to avoid appearing in court.

$25 Fine in Numbers Case

Lynn Gaskins, 36, 404 Royal st., Alexandria, Va., was fined $25 and costs yesterday in Alexandria Civil and Police Court after pleading guilty to playing the numbers. Gaskins, a laborer, was arrested Tuesday during a police raid at 510 N. Royal st., Alexandria.

A charge against Gabe Hall, 27, 510 N. Royal st., of operating a numbers game was nolle prossed. Similar charges against four others were continued to June 2. They were Margaret Hall, 27, 510 N. Royal st.; Cheater R. Slade, 49, 417 S. St. Asaph st.; Charles Smith, 58, 213 S. Peyton st.; Florine Jones, 38, Southern Railway Yards.

Rent Increase Asked

Rent increases of approximately 8 per cent have been asked for 390 apartments at Dorchester House, 2480 16th st. nw., the District Rent Control Administration revealed yesterday.

A hearing on the proposal has been set for June 25, William A. Richardson, rent control secretary-docket clerk, announced.

Dr. Slavik Pleas for Refugees In Congressional Club Talk

Dr. Juraj Slavik, former Czechoslovakian Ambassador, made a plea for aid of his country's refugees in a talk yesterday before members of the Congressional Club at their clubhouse on New Hampshire ave.

Between 8000 and 10,000 persons have escaped from Czechoslovakia within the last two months and have found refuge in the American zone in Germany, according to Dr. Slavik.

"These men and women, true martyrs of democracy, are without food, clothing or hope for the future," said the former diplomat who resigned his post here on March 3 because he did not agree with his country's present governmental policies. "Many of these refugees are former ministers and heads of government departments, soldiers, writers and newspapermen," he continued. "They could do valuable work in any country which will admit them."

Dr. Slavik pointed out that by helping those who have escaped, we can give hope and encouragement to those who have to remain within Czechoslovakia but who are looking eagerly to the democracies for aid. "These are the ones we will rely upon to help turn the tide against the present rulers, when the proper time comes," he said.

Dr. Slavik was introduced at the regular weekly meeting of the club by Mrs. Homer Ferguson, wife of the Senator from Michigan.

How to Keep Iron Working Properly

My 6-year-old iron has been giving me trouble in ironing my clean clothes dirty after a few minutes' use. Does this mean the iron needs replating? I scour the iron before heating it. If the iron does need replating, where can this be done? . E. C.

Possibly the sole plate of your iron has become roughened through use so that starch sticks to it, becomes brown, and thus soils the clothes. A more satisfactory way to restore it than having it replated would be to order a new sole plate through the dealer for your iron. One such firm can be reached by calling National 8800.

I have moved into a small house, in which I have to do all my own work, besides cleaning. Washing and ironing are easy for me, but house cleaning I find quite a chore. Is there some simple and effective way to clean house once a week? I have four rooms and bath and a small porch. A. T. N.

I sincerely wish I could tell you of a simple way to keep a house clean. Even using all labor saving devices and short cuts, the job is still not exactly simple. However, here are some suggestions which might help: Most homemakers find that by doing one extra job each week in addition to their general cleaning, the house takes on a better appearance of cleanliness than if such jobs are left to seasonal cleaning. For instance, such jobs as window washing, waxing floors, cleaning closets, going over the furniture with polish and vacuuming upholstery could be listed and parceled out so that all would be accomplished, by doing one or two each week, in the space of a month or two months.

On your cleaning day each week go over the entire house thoroughly. This would include dusting all surfaces not touched in day-by-day cleaning, thorough vacuuming under all furniture, dusting floor under furniture and so forth. With such a cleaning one day a week, all that should be necessary on other days would be vacuuming without moving furniture and a quick dusting.

I am in the school of social work at Catholic University of America and am majoring in group work. I find your hints for planning most helpful. Is it possible that you have any literature on parties, games of all sorts and on anything else that would be of interest to a group worker in search of ideas. A. O.

I'm sorry we do not have any literature which we can send you on group activities. However, there are a number of books available at book stores which would be helpful to you. "A Complete Book of Games" by Clement Wood and Gloria Goddard (pub. by Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., New York) is surely what the name implies. It gives indoor as well as outdoor games and the rules for all of the better known ones.

For party ideas there is "The Year Around Party Book" by William P. Young and Horace J. Gardner (pub. by J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia). Browsing in any book store or library should enable you to find others. Here's another idea which might be helpful. As you see party or game suggestions in magazines and newspapers, clip and file them. In this way, very soon you will have innumerable ideas which can be used as they are, or adapted to new situations which arise. The real value in such a file is that it gives you a starting point to which you can add your own ideas.

I would like to know where to find recipes to make my own roll and cake mix, which can be kept over a period of time. M. J. K.

To make a cake mix you could measure and combine a quantity of all of the dry ingredients for cake. For a plain cake mix:

CAKE MIX

9 cups cake flour
6 cups sugar
10 teaspoons double acting baking powder
4 teaspoons salt

Be sure to sift flour before measuring and measure very accurately. Also, very thoroughly sift the dry ingredients together. When mixed, store them in a tightly covered jar.

Now, when you wish to make cake, use 3¾ cups of this mixture and add to it:

1 teaspoon vanilla (or other flavor)
1 cup milk
2 eggs

Makes two 8-inch layers.

Have the above ingredients at room temperature and beat for 4 to 5 minutes to thoroughly combine. Of course, various flavorings could be added to the cake when making it so that a variety of cakes could be made. I do not believe it would be a good idea to add the shortening to the dry ingredients when making the cake mix because it would be difficult to combine it properly in such large quantity with home equipment.

I really do not believe there would be much of a saving in time in making a roll mix at home. The only dry ingredients which you could combine in advance would be flour, sugar and salt. The fat, yeast, eggs (if any) and liquid would need to be added when the rolls are mixed for the reason given above.

Pressure Cooker Does Small Jobs Of Home Canning

A pressure saucepan may be successfully used for small jobs of home canning provided the saucepan meets certain requirements, and provided processing times scientifically adapted to saucepans are used, two equipment specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture report.

For home canning a saucepan must be tall enough to hold pint jars on a rack with the saucepan cover locked in place, and the saucepan must have a gauge that allows pressure to be controlled accurately at 10 pounds.

To sterilize vegetables for safekeeping, processing times at 10 pounds pressure must be 20 minutes longer in a saucepan than the times recommended for a pressure canner, the experimental canning shows.

Time Out to Exercise

Housework Alone Won't Give Homemaker a Trim Figure

IF YOU have a minute to spare, homemakers, I'd like to take up some streamlining measures with you. Oh, I know it's ironing day, but if you could just stop for 12 minutes—what, and get behind one shirt, you'll bristle at this point! Well, it would help to take the kinks out of that right shoulder, wouldn't it? Frankly you will feel less tired when you get to the bottom of that basket if you do something to counteract the forward bending and to tone the middle muscles.

Housework is work, but it's the arms, legs and back which bear the brunt . . . the big figure-controlling muscles in the middle of the figure are not used to any extent, and that's why housework to the contrary, the middle-age spread comes on.

I'm for making housework as easy as possible. Sit on a high chair to iron, and certainly have an ironing board that can be adjusted to the height that does away with bending; sit down to wash the dishes and to prepare vegetables, and use all the labor- and time-saving gadgets possible. And take time out from housework to go through a simple routine of figure-saving calisthenics.

Midmorning is an ideal time to exercise, while you feel fresh. If that is out of the question, catch your second high energy level which is between 3 and 4 in the afternoon. The right kind of exercise will not increase fatigue—it releases tension and builds energy.

Today's trio of conditioners helps to counteract forward reaching and strengthen the muscles of the abdominal wall. Turn on some music if you like . . . that's more relaxing.

First lie on the floor on the living room rug and s-t-r-e-t-c-h! Stretch arms back on floor overhead, legs straight down and push up with arms and down with legs. Then let go. Do this two or three times, leisurely. Now bend your knees and bring them up over your chest and sort of hug knees to chest. That "rests" your back. Follow with this new streamliner:

Position: Stand on your knees, clasp hands behind your hips and pull up firmly with the middle muscles.

Movement: Now bend forward slowly, keeping head in line, until you can touch forehead to floor. If you'll keep pulling up firmly with the middle muscles as you bend forward, you can just feel this exercise doing you good! Repeat slowly, 6 times, later 10 times.

Finish by lying on the floor again and stretching big from tip to toe . . . See, the kinks are all gone!

Child's Misery May Result In Cruelty

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

If children are treated kindly by parents and other children in the family, mothers cannot but be appalled and worried when they find them treating animals cruelly. Reasonless cruelty is hard to understand and they must look at it from the child's standpoint and try to determine whether it is entirely without foundation.

It is easy enough to find an answer if the child is, himself, the victim of cruel comrades, parents or relatives. Then they may expect that he, in turn, will bully helpless companions, or barring these, will work out his spite and venom on animals.

Sometimes, when the child is jealous of other members of the family, and is restrained by parents from exhibiting his jealousy, it bursts forth in acts of cruelty to the pets he possesses. He wants to hurt something, as he is hurt, and the animal is the object closest at hand.

He may be a dominated child, with parents who pack him into some mold of conduct which pleases them but antagonizes the child. He may not be strong enough to work his will against theirs, but the animal is helpless against him. He can feel the power of superiority, as he cannot in the family circle.

A child often carries burdens of inferiority because he cannot match or exceed the skills and talents of other members of the family. He may recognize his own handicaps though the family is ignorant of them. But the emotions of bitterness and misery will be there and may inspire him to deal cruelly with an animal who cannot retaliate against him.

Take away a pet if a child is mistreating it, until such time as his habits change. But know that ranting and shaming him will in no way alter his warped emotions. He needs love. He needs appreciation for what he is. He needs encouragement to develop his own talents and skills. Then he will feel those gentler, kindlier emotions which will be reflected in his treatment of the helpless, whether animal or human.

Mr. Clark Will Soon Be Out of Business

Schoolteacher Retta Dillon gets into our discussion of juvenile delinquency with the story of an incident which took place in her neighborhood the other day.

Down at the corner (9th and Longfellow sts. nw.) a Penguin ice cream truck put-putted to a halt. After a vain attempt to fix it, the driver went off for help.

A group of children gathered, and began the inevitable game of make - believe, "driving" the truck and "selling" its wares.

Pretty soon one of the kids discovered that the freezer wasn't locked — and from it he extracted a tempting hunk of stick ice cream.

The other moppets crowded around to contemplate this important discovery, and Miss Dillon watched their next move with great interest.

After due deliberation, it was decided that the ice cream wasn't their property, and must be replaced in the truck forthwith. And that's precisely what they did!

When the driver finally returned with a mechanic, he checked his stock, found everything in apple pie order — and rewarded the children with free ice cream all around.

And that's one group of youngsters Tom Clark won't have to fret about.

PIED TTTYPE DEPT.

Mrs. Homer George of Catlett, Va., forwards a clipping of an advertisement offering "precision fittted slacks" and asks:

"Do you suppose that the extra letter was included to indicate that the slacks are fitted to a 'T'?"

GIVE-AWAYS

"I am a little girl 10 years old and I have six cute puppies to give away to someone who loves dogs." (Elnora Duvall, Naylor, Md., Brandywine 2563).

"Nine-month-old male pup, mostly spaniel." (Axminster 3229).

"Three 6-week-old kittens." (Glebe 0951).

"Ten very pretty, well-fed kittens." (Hobart 8373.)

"Two lovely kittens." (Emerson 6303.)

"Beautiful 8-month-old setter; we'd like to find him a good home with a yard." (Ludlow 6079.)

MISCELLANY

Allan Markley of 4850 MacArthur blvd. nw., was at the Reflecting Pool the other Sunday when members of the National Capital Casting Club were lined up along the sides, getting in a little practice at casting flies and plugs. An irate citizen decided that they were "desecrating the park by fishing in that pool," and stormed off in search of a park policeman . . . Elva Andes of 1626 P st. nw., is starting a movement to get poor old Ben Franklin down off the roof of the Franklin School. She says: "One of Ben's years and dignity should more fittingly be placed in the second-story windows" . . . Local members of the Yale class of 1929 will hold a reunion at the Metropolitan Club on the 25th of this month. Kentucky's Congressman Thurston B. Morton (National 3120) is taking reservations, and says that Sheff 29'ers are welcome, too. . . . One of the best radio programs about household pets is aired by Margaret K. Hines of 4905 Edmonston ave., Hyattsville, Md. She's on WBUZ-FM at 6:30 p. m. Wednesdays and 1:15 p. m. Sundays and can answer just about every pet question except: "How can you feed a Great Dane on 20 cents a week?" . . . Mrs. M. L. Bender of 19 U st. nw., says that George O. L. Holmes' query about handwriting books reminded her of her pet peeve—the slipshod way in which our schools "teach" handwriting these days. (I'm on your side in this argument, Mrs. B. What a pleasure it is to get a beautifully written letter which can be read without an interpreter) . . . Mrs. Charles Davis Jameson of 1834 Belmont rd. nw., and M. Sanders of 4313 Russell ave., Mount Rainier, Md., team up to catch a dandy for our Pied Type Dept. The Washington Post's "Radio Highlights" recently suggested that listeners tune in at 10:30 p. m. for "Lauritz Belchoir."

DID YOU KNOW THAT . . .

George Washington Universi doesn't believe in disclosing th whereabouts of its students, "disturbing them with me sages."

An out-of-town veteran ble into town the other day, an while passing through tried t look up his buddy of Sout Pacific days. He didn't have a address; all he knew was tha the buddy was now attendin G. W.

But he reports that his earnest pleas for information drew a total blank at the university office. Rules is rules.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Jim Wilfong of 1541 Montana ave. ne. muses, "Good music is the kind you'd just as soon listen to."

ANOTHER RED MENACE?

One of the columnists on our morning contemporary recently wrote:

"Margaret was carrying a huge bouquet of red roses and wearing a cream-colored beret to match."

It's not every newspaper that can detect a reddish tinge even in cream.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—Gen. Edward S. Greenbaum, the lawyer, has believed for many years that legal phraseology can be simplified. He prepared to campaign for this simplification, and took courses in "The Art of Plain Writing," conducted by N.Y.U.'s Rudolph Flesch. And from Franklin Square in Philadelphia comes the story of the strange aftermath: The pupils in the plain-writing course are assigned to write stories in simple language. General Greenbaum wrote a story on the death of William S. Knudsen, sent a carbon copy of this homework to the Saturday Evening Post and received a check for its publication.

Gen. Omar Bradley recently was the principal speaker at a dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria. When he entered the elevater to take him to the banquet hall, four soldiers stepped inside as protection, and drew their guns . . . Bradley was startled by this sudden move. "Put those things away," he ordered. Then the distinguished war hero added: "I'm afraid of 'em."

Jacob Billikopf, in reminiscing of the establishment of the Franklin Institute, tells of the organizing luncheon he attended aboard the Lyndonia, the yacht owned by Cyrus Curtis. At this luncheon Curtis was host to a group of eminent Philadelphians who were interested in the Benjamin Franklin memorial project . . . Eldridge Johnson, who had just bought the original manuscript of "Alice in Wonderland" for $100,000, expressed admiration for the Curtis yacht, and said he was negotiating to buy one—but didn't want to pay more than $500,000 for it. George Horace Lorimer then said that he too was interested in a yacht, for $500,000. Curtis said that the purchase and reconditioning of the Lyndonia cost $3,750,000. "But," added Curtis, "it doesn't cost me anything, and I'll tell you why."

Curtis told of taking his grandsons, Curtis and Cary, aboard the Lyndonia, and asking them: "How do you like this yacht?" The youngsters beamed in delight. "Well, it doesn't cost me anything," said their grandfather. "How is that?" the boys asked him . . . "Because," Curtis explained to the two boys who would inherit his wealth, "you boys will be paying for it" . . . After his death his executors sold it for less than $100,000.

Dead Men Tell No Tales in Greece

By Drew Pearson

Dead men tell no tales. That was why Greek terrorists tied the hands and feet of George Polk, CBS correspondent, shot him in the back and dumped him into Salonika harbor. Polk couldn't struggle much. His back had been broken when he crash-landed at Guadalcanal and his spine was patched with metal plates.

Pearson

George had been severely critical of the Greek rightist regime and so, because dead men tell no tales, he was bumped off.

However, from the blue, dead lips of George Polk comes a tale which may shake the graft-ridden Greek government to its rotten core. Certainly it will tell the American taxpayers what they are entitled to know about the millions of dollars they have dumped into Greece.

For what the murderers of George Polk did not know was that he had written letters before his death—letters which still live.

"We are fighting a tough battle over here," Polk wrote me before his death "My feeling about Greece is that we should get in or get out, all the way. The situation is too grave for half-measures.

"Of course, the State Department hopes to stave off drastic decisions until after the United States presidential elections; but even our poorly informed American Embassy doubts that this can be done.

"Yet when a reporter writes this kind of report, he comes under attack by the royalist right-wingers who are squeezing the country for their own benefit—and sending dollars out in diplomatic pouches as fast as possible. Specifically, these crooks hope to get a number of American reporters now working in Greece discreditied or moved.

American People Should Know

"Nevertheless," continued Polk, "I think the American people deserve to know the kind of political machine that is rolling roughshod over the very nice Greek people."

Polk then proceeded to tell how "the propaganda line of both the Communists and the dominant right-wing Populist Party has become identically the same.

"Both," he said, "are charging the United States with 'interference' in internal Greek affairs; both are charging that Washington desires to use the Greek people for the creation of an American empire.

"For example, the secret radio station of the Communist-led Greek guerillas has said: 'The United States is interfering in Greece to suck Greece's blood for nourishment of American imperialisms.'

"Simultaneously the Athens royalist press has started plugging the same line, charging the United States with trying to establish a puppet government in the Greek capital so that Greeks will fight America's war against the Soviet Union.

"Greece's second-largest newspaper, royalist Vrathini, has declared that 'if one observes the notices being issued to the Greek government by American Administrator Dwight P. Griswold, one must conclude that these were formulated in Tokyo, addressed to the conquered Japanese or some other gangster-dominated country . . . Ironically these tactics are being used by a people who, through grave blunders, surrendered Europe to the worst of enemies and now are trying to win the war which was lost at Yalta and Potsdam . . . Further, the Americans—and our other allies—are chiefly to blame for the misery, devastation, and loss of life in Greece during the past year because of refusal to give the Greek army sufficient arms for use against the bandits in the hills'."

Polk's Prophecy

Prophetically, Polk then put his finger on something which has started to come true.

"For the moment," he diagnosed, "the rightwing is playing things carefully because Populist Leader Tsaldaris and henchmen don't want to upset Greece's opportunity to be included in the European Recovery Program. But once Greece is included, the rightwing is prepared to move fast—break up the coalition government, form a new one run in dictatorial fashion, send Parliament home, replace '200 key administrative officers' of the army, police, security officers, prisons, and put into effect 'dynamic policies.'"

It was only a short time after the Marshall Plan was applied to Greece that 250 Greek political prisoners were shot by the government in retaliation for the assassination of Minister of Justice Ladas.

Weather-beaten

When life is filled with promise and . . . The sky is really blue . . . It seems that nothing can prevent . . . Our dreams from coming true . . . We find it so much easier . . . To smile and say hello . . . And sing a song of friendliness . . . Wherever we may go . . . But when the rain is coming down . . . And when the clouds are gray . . . There are no cheerful thoughts in us . . . Or pleasant words to say . . . We always sort of overlook . . . Our blessings great and small . . . And figure there is nothing left . . . To comfort us at all . . . Why do we let the weather-vane . . . Decide the life we live . . . When there is so much happiness . . . To gather and to give?
